Thread: IDK whats going on....

Cernunnos - July 8, 2009, 6:45 am in an eairlier tread in this section i had problem w/ FF.

so i did a clean uninstall [all the way to the registry] and reinstalled it...

well the problem still persist.

my FF after about an hour of use would show up 2 or 3 times in my process and i cant kill them...?

but this time it happen in ~10 min of use...
whats going on??

FF= ??

Fusion Fall? More description.

And if you posted a thread earlier, bump it & don't make another thread please.

It's quite a common bug with Firefox, but I can always kill the process in task manager when it happens.
Make sure you're using the latest version (3.5).

People say FF for short, just like how you call Internet Explorer "IE".

lol wow acronyms ftw

ummm but on topic...
i just installed it [FF 3.5]
just happened again
and also noticed that IE does this infinite connection as well but i can kill its process...

im at a loss on this on...
[thats it... calling HP and gonna try the blame game] lol thats the exact problem im have w/ same symptoms and everything!

but that does help as the problem hasnt been resolved for him either...

i also ran CCleanner and ran 2 full scans...
to no avail?

is my luck that bad?
