[img]http://img51.imageshack.us/img51/2627/logoygx.png[/img]

Hey guys, i want to show you the little shell i made ;)

Feel free to grab your copy ;)

I haven't tested it because i have no server which allows fsockopen().

So if you find bugs or whatever or if you have ideas for a design or functions - let me know them ;)

Features:

[*] UDP Flood

[*] TCP Flood

[*] HTTP Flood

[*] Slowloris

[*] Nice GUI

[*] Easy to use

[*] GET Shell (no problem to use it with a shell booter)

How to use it in a shellbooter:

Spoiler (Click to View)

[*] UDP Flood:

Code shell.php?type=UDP&host=127.0.0.1&time=10

[*] TCP Flood:

Code shell.php?type=TCP&host=127.0.0.1&port=3074&time=10

[*] HTTP Flood:

Code shell.php?type=HTTP&host=127.0.0.1&page=%2index.html&time=10

%2 = /

[*] Slowloris:

Code shell.php?type=SLOWLORIS&host=127.0.0.1&page=%2index.html&time=10

%2 = /

DuaL_Sho0k - January 30, 2011, 10:30 am

FIRST !!! =)

Good job , design beautiful

I go to test it

imbabanefire - January 30, 2011, 11:17 am

Second i guess:P

Nice job i ll test it as well

BlackPlaguez - January 30, 2011, 11:24 am

Looks amazing nice work!!! It has 4 features all in one this is the shell im going to use from now on!!!

van1lle - January 30, 2011, 11:31 am

Thanks for the positive comments.

Try it and tell me the result ;)

If you find any bug please let me know it so i can fix it!

But one thing don't use it on Funpic! You will get the error! Even if other shells seems like hitting very hard. No packet will arrive the victim!

Hope i get some more comments ;)

Instructed - January 30, 2011, 11:32 am

Looks good, bout to go test it.

DuaL_Sho0k - January 30, 2011, 12:43 pm

Just a quick question:

How many shell the script use to do the flood UDP, TCP and HTTP

ghostika - January 30, 2011, 12:44 pm

good work, I'll try:)

he looks very good!

DuaL_Sho0k - January 30, 2011, 1:34 pm

Ok, excuse me, I had not done.

Problem solved

ipollock - January 30, 2011, 1:42 pm

hmm idk whats wrong. After I download it there is no icon for it when I try to open it, it says that I need the program that created it to open it. Help please (=

T1D3L0T - January 31, 2011, 1:51 am

The shell is epic! Works like a charm, milliosn of thankiess!

03storic - January 31, 2011, 2:38 am

Going to test it now, but I don't particularly like that all the options are on different pages but still a nice DoS shell.

this is not a shell booter it is a dos shell code.

Re3PlaY - January 31, 2011, 3:02 am

Niceeee, i gonna test it :)

03storic - January 31, 2011, 3:09 am

Works nice but for some reason my browser crashed when I tested the Slowloris Flood.

C0D3 - January 31, 2011, 7:40 am

Really appreciate your work..But the only thing I am confused at is HTTP Flood and Slowloris methods are almost alike , but in fact there's alot of difference when it comes to their working strategy..

dasb00t - March 3, 2011, 11:26 am

what do you open it with. it says i need to browse for something van1lle - March 3, 2011, 11:44 am

@COD3

[*]HTTP Flood makes the server overload itself so to say. Because of that many requests of a webpage the server tries to respond to every request. Now image the page is got a size about 20-30KiloBytes and >2000 requests at the same time.. yeah thats it. Also its trying to hold the connection open als long as it can.

[*]Slowloris is similar to HTTP Flood. It also sends http requests (POST requests ; normal http flood sends GET request) and in the post request it tells the server you want to transfer information to it but you actually won't send anything so the server waits for you (server thinks there could be some problems, whatever). And because of apache has a maximum of connections any you open for example 1000 connections to it and hold them, nobody else is able to get a free connection.

@SH3RMAN

Thanks for you feedback ;)

@jknice

Any ip you want ;)

But with HTTP flood and slowloris i'd take the domain instead of the ip.
@codevade

Thanks you too for you feedback ;)
@dasb00t

You can open it with notepad or any texteditor to change the source.. But if you want to use it you need to upload it to a webserver with PHP installed.

This is not a hub.. this is one shell for a hub so the shellbooter sends the command to that shell ;)

I did HTTP Flood.

And when I clicked to start

then I get this error

[IMG]http://i52.[censored].com/1zflg84.png[/IMG]

on TCP flood and Slowories same error.

Only UDP flood worked.

audiodino - April 2, 2011, 1:11 pm

any one know a free webhost that will work with this

Yahian - April 3, 2011, 8:22 am

don't know. But free hosts sucks.

van1lle - April 3, 2011, 8:45 am

It will not work on free hosts guys because they block the function -> fsockopen()
Everyone who got php skills know what it is. :P

Yahian - April 3, 2011, 11:32 am

Im not using free hosting.
I have dedicated server which costs 150€ monthly...

Da God - April 3, 2011, 11:34 am

Awesome job!!!

EDIT: Only one suggestion:

use base64 encrption to replace imageshack pictures, for self-exist mode :)

MajorFail - June 2, 2011, 2:05 pm

Nice job! Thanks!

Just a few modifications I made to make this script work: the $page variable is used for displaying html content, but also in the HTTP flood & slowloris request header. So this leads to an incorrect GET request as: "GET <html>" etc etc.

Also there was a problem with the "if ($fp)" part, it would also do this part if the fsock connection was closed, so it resulted in fwrite/fclose errors.

sangar66 - June 2, 2011, 2:38 pm

I would love this if it also had a file manager/upload.... So it would not only be DoS shell, it would be server management too....
