oh damnn what do u suggest ido? start fresh with new keylogs and new email? or anyway to fix this?

FUCK i just tried sending myself an email

"In an effort to fight spam and prevent abuse, Google will temporarily disable your account if you send messages to more than 500 recipients or if you send a large number of undeliverable messages. If you use a POP or IMAP client (Microsoft Outlook or Apple Mail, e.g.), you may only send a message to 100 people at a time. Your account should be re-enabled within 24 hours. "

damn does this mean ill miss all the emails that were meant to be sent during this time? any solutions to all this would be appreciated im pretty new at this

-edit-

That sucks man - there is really no solution as far as i know - I would make a new email however, it looks like that ones been compromised.

Could quite possibly set up a RAT instead - or use FTP c5124074 - February 5, 2011, 10:45 am sorry if i sound like a noob but what is a RAT? any any FTP server recommendations would be greatly appreciated

A RAT is a Remote Administration Tool. Gives you full control over the victim's PC.

I had that same message back in a while.

Just wait a day and you will be able to get back in your email.

I had over 900 emails in one night, wich caused mine disable.

Neptune hasn't been updated in a while . It doesn't work anymore . Use Decay's

Rich Bitch - February 5, 2011, 11:52 am

When the computer is off it doesnt send logs
