Thread: Ways of getting a facebook password

Madas2 - June 23, 2015, 2:26 pm
Hello guys, I have the previous password and the gmail of my victim. So I was wondering whether there is a way i can set a new password or get the one he/she is using now.

If you have the old password, try the same login on maybe an alternate email account that he/she might not have changed yet. Try aol, outlook, yahoo, and other popular ones. Maybe even get the new password with a RAT or Keylogger? Not sure what the whole situation is, but if you PM me I'll surely be able to give more assistance than just advice. Good luck.

I cannot PM you unfortunately. I had a keylogger on the pc but it is not working anymore and we are 2000 km apart.I have a gmail and skype password. Those are the only things he/she is using. I still beliebe there isa method that could gte me the password. I mean i have the previous password

Assuming you know the login details of the victim's Gmail, why don't you just request a 'forgot password' mail?

Alright, then send a forgot password link from FB to that gmail and whalla; change the password for FB, and if they're logged into mobile they won't get signed out when you change it.

EDIT: They'll only know it was changed if they need to sign in again on a different device(or see the email, which you should delete all emails that you had sent) i have a previous password im trying to hack into someones account can you help?

Herko - July 11, 2015, 8:49 pm
I thought forgot password would come with secruity questions? But if you have Gmail password of the account then click forgotten password then it will send a email to the Gmail which you can access with the password,

Then set it too whatever you like?

I assume you no longer have a keylogger on their computer?

If not, try to SE them.

Call their phone and pretend to be Facebook support, telling them their account was compromised. This works literally every time for me.
