Thread: Teamviewer Mouse Control Hack?

R A G E - February 13, 2011, 3:53 pm

Last night i was selling some gp and some kid came on my teamviewer and completely controlled my mouse and i had the mouse button off. I couldn't do anything about it. I'm 100% sure it wasn't a rat either. I didnt accept any file transfers. Apparently doing this is the new thing on sythe. Anyone know how to do it?

You should've just turned your computer off.

Its called "Disable Remote Input", which is an option that comes with teamviewer, not a hack. They get full control of your computer's mouse and keyboard. There is also a "Show Black Screen" option, which allows the person connecting to make your screen un-viewable to you. Both are under "Options" when you connect to somebody else's computer.

Be careful about who you let connect to your computer.

What game?

I'm sure this could apply to a wide variety of games considering the game that he's talking about was never specifically stated.
