Cheers broe <3

My tasks will be to check statistic of teams and then decide what the best odds will be for their game.

They call us bookers

An example would be

Manchester United vs Arsenal starts tomorrow

I need to check how good Man United are at home and how many injured players they have etc etc... Then at the end i decide how much their odds is goin to be.

Interesting job.

I use to be a betting shop manager.

What is this role for?

Cytax - October 2, 2017, 12:52 pm
Best of luck to you mate, hope it all works out

Best of luck mate. That job seems very interesting, I didn't know there where people who are assigned to that kind of thing. I always thought that the odds where made by AI or something, but it makes sense to be done manually.

This actually sounds pretty interesting. Could be pretty sweet if you get the job. This job would be very fun if you are good at it, but if you make a wrong prediction things could go sour I would think. Keep us updated!!

Im a human i can never never do 100% correct predictions.

We are a team with 4-5 persons and we focus on only one league.

well i was a comedian for 3 months, but i later got fired because i was " not what they expected ".. thats a bummer

but for the past 2 years i've been a professional tickler (once you catch the humans its pretty straight forward, you'll make them laugh to DEATH if u know what ure doing) basically my job is this:

LURE human to my room
CLOSE the door, prevent escape
TIE them to a chair
START tickling, and then say:
fuk u u human if u dont call ur bank up and give me all ur money i wont stop tickling you they give in pretty quickly i wont lie they would never expect this from a dog plus as soon as they walk out the room and tell their friends " a dog tickled me and didn't stop until i paid up ", noone's gonna believe them

PLEASE DONT sell this as an ebook its a private method

this month i made 7,819,820$
i got lucky i caught a multi millionaire in my trap room

Seems like an interesting position. I thought odds were automatically adjusted based on how many bets were placed in favour of it. I suppose they need a baseline point though. Any idea about what kind of salaries you will be getting? Best of luck with your interview.

Are you going to work with other bookies or you're one man odds army lmao
Can you tell us how much are you going to get paid? It seems like you're not going to do too much work, especially after you already do your own analysis for soccer.

As i said im goin to work with a team with 4-5 persons and we are goin to focus only on one league.

The payout is around 30.000 GBP/Year (It also depends how good you are if you make a good year you can earn a lot of bonuses)

Yeah that's a part of it but they do need to start accepting odds at first and those need to be calculated. It offers a sort-of template. Bookies don't take any risks though and they all use an exchange as you said, to trade bets for other ones to profit.

If you get the job, you should be able to buy a house within a few years, if you wanna do that.
