What do you think about this?

Who will be the future countries?

I'm not Canadian, I'd like to know your opinion. ?

- I don't live in Canada
- I don't smoke pot

I've never had a problem with marijuana. As long as people don't start shoving it in my face telling me too try it. I could really care less where it's legalized.

Then perhaps this thread isn't for you maybe. ?

Either way to answer your question OP; I think it's a good step towards legalization throughout the entire world and do hope it's getting legalized in my country as well. As for what country is next to legalize cannabis is hard to say in my opinion. Hopefully mine ;)

This thread is for anyone who wishes too give OP an opinion, like he asked. Just because someone doesn't smoke pot doesn't mean they can't have an opinion about decisions regarding it.

This is great! The US can get pot from Canada easily now if needed. Cuts out more of the crime and profits from the Mexican cartels shitty blood weed supply.

weed supply.
How is the US going to get pot from Canada easily? Transporting it across the border is still illegal. Both ways.

Just as easy as people used to get booze from Canada when alcohol prohibition was in effect.
