Thread: Pathetic $4 attempted scam

ryderpanel - December 22, 2018, 11:05 pm
His post

So I asked for a vouch copy, which I ended up waiting 24 hours for and posted that waiting 24 hours is a bit ridiculous warning the community. That's when "shit" really hit the fan. I contacted him on Skype... ah what's the point just read it for yourself....

Contract - https://hackforums.net/contracts.php?action=view&cid=19400

Deal with caution, I did make a contract to do $4 but then wanted me to sent over my account, instead of doing the old fashion way buy adding my unique id and starting a match and doing it that way. There was all types of excuses and pathetic dramas the chat shows it all, let me know what you think.

Just looking out for the community as always!

tbh seems like mr ashraf is in the right here

I can agree with the old fashion way unless there is something going on that is likely to get your account banned.

As for this deal dispute, I highly doubt its valid. Taking into consideration you didn't complete the deal and it was originally a vouch copy.

The most this could be is a community alert rather than a dispute. Ensure you always clarify.

Not even a community alert ryderpanel was just begging for vouch copies which isn't even allowed the seller did nothing wrong.

I know. Which is why I said the most he could do was the community alert. Either way, it was a dumb situation all around from what I can see.

So you broke site policy by asking for a vouch copy, then made an alert against the guy with no valid proof of wrong doing.

Yeah, you’re really earning your stripes as a good member.

Mr Relic - December 23, 2018, 6:49 am
With all due respect OP, he did not attempt or scam you for $4 exactly.
I do agree he went pretty balls to the walls on the immature comments and flex but all in all he didn't attempt a blatant scam.

Seems like you both just have to losen your panties and move on.
Good luck OP!

Tbh if anything ryderpanel looks like the scammer here read those screenshots his text was more sketchy then anything.

Effexion - December 23, 2018, 6:51 am
I don't see any wrong here. Oh, and did the original thread mention vouch copies were available? If not, you have just landed yourself in it.

Pretty much lmao.

It just sounds like you got irritated you didn't receive your vouch copy within 24 hours. which isn't really a good reason to call this a scam as its a "vouch copy" nonetheless I believe he was probably busy with his own life. there is no reason to be mad over something given for free. there were immature comments said by seller though I can agree.

ryderpanel - December 23, 2018, 12:46 pm
You do realise I tried to buy 100m coins then he expected me go to first right.

Calling me a scammer seriously... also how am I breaking the rules as many people had asked for a vouch copy, I tried to resolve it by purchasing 100m coins.

Yes the post is rather pointless I’m just pointing out the lack of maturity and unprofessional act by the user and technically attempted to scam me by tell me to go first as a new member.

Begging I tried to purchase 100m coins which he expected me to go first as he claimed (no seller goes first)

You started a thread titled "Pathetic $4 scam". That would mean you are filing an invalid report against him. Now if you did a community alert that would be fine. But since no contract was used and no deal was made within hackforums, your thread is invalid. Asking for vouches is against the rules regardless of how many people are doing it.

ryderpanel - December 23, 2018, 1:49 pm

"Pathetic $4 attempted scam" correction, I'm not filing a report against him, I merely stating to the community to be cautious. In valid there was a contract, we agreed on a mutual cancellation as he expect me to go first.

Link your HF contract and change your tag on this thread to Community Alert. Otherwise, its going to be looked at as a deal dispute.

You joined the forum a few days before he did you are for sure not trusted.

Perhaps I'm not trust but I do have plenty of people who can back my services and exchanges. I'm not trying to ruin anyone here I am merely stating what happened. The fact you call me a scammer is rather sad, but I guess that's what small minded people do. Additionally you aren't trusted either you have 13 b rating. Doesn't matter how long you have been on the site, you can't trust anyone on the internet a simple fact. I have more b rating than he does, I tried to purchase 100m coins but he expect me to go first, I even asked to use a middleman. Your open to your own opinion, doesn't bother me.

Thanks

I think thats why so many people were saying it was invalid. Since deal disputes is for deal disputes.
