Thread: [\[Release\] UnKnoWn Crypter V2 - 100% FUD - \[Free\]\[Unique\New method\]](#)

stefsot - March 7, 2011, 2:03 am

Since my post has been deleted from database due to that annoying error I'm reposting it again. So this is my second release of UnKnoWn Crypter (V2) with UNIQUE storing method (No EOF, No resources, No Codedom, No Binder) and It's 100% FUD.

As always a Screenshot

[img]<http://www.mediafire.com/imgbnc.php/6f59362d2c0254c5d70515b466fb18800993e2c1ba61f6ffa15ec0e820ebd636g.jpg>[img]

As you can see better GUI (I still don't care about it as it's the easiest work for someone to work on)

Features

- Scantime protection
- Runtime protection
- Unique crypting method, undetected
- Private securing algorithm
- 100% FUD

Limitations

- The file must be up to 286256 bytes
- The file must be written in vb
- The file should not require openfiledialog\savefiledialog or will crash as soon as one of these tries to pop up (due to runpe)

STUB IS STILL FUD!

Please give thanks as it took too much time to build this. All credits to me.
I'll also repost my tutorial on how to build your own UnKnoWn crypter, just wait (thank god I had saved it!).

hazzy - March 8, 2011, 7:49 am

Great work, here's proof it's not backdoored before someone calls you on it:

[IMG]<http://i1129.photobucket.com/albums/m503/HazDesign/proof.png>[/IMG]

Downside is Cybergate servers are 1kb too big to be crypted.

This post was older with way more replies, but after the crash everything disappeared, lol.

Check out my tut and how you can bypass the byte limit here:

Not working dude :(X(

A B c - March 8, 2011, 10:09 am

Thanks I will try this out, did you use vb6?

pac - March 8, 2011, 10:25 am ive got a password... is this working with DarkComet FWB?

stefsot - March 8, 2011, 10:27 am

I'll soon post a new version with more bytes limit (way more) and one More support RunPe for avoiding crashing (your server will crash if it's not a dynamic managed application, most windowsformapplications are).

You can always make your own crypter (if you want) and make it as you desire (link in my signature, vb.net).

wissam - March 8, 2011, 10:36 am

can anyone decrypt this password and pm me plz?!

VIRUZ™ - March 8, 2011, 10:39 am lol some people on here are n00b's damn xD compress your cybergate exe

wissam - March 8, 2011, 10:48 am

thanks man i knew how well now i will try it sid8012 - March 8, 2011, 10:50 am

It's a public crypter. It was expectable that it will get UD... Refud it again using my TuT (link in signature).

DaddyStrikes - March 8, 2011, 12:21 pm

stefsot.. when making ur crypter (using ur TuT) can't you just change the filesize value to like 2097152 bytes (2MB, 2?21bytes)

baby_face_xD - March 8, 2011, 12:28 pm

why just 200 kb ??? so for me its no sense then -.-

stefsot - March 8, 2011, 12:41 pm

It's not that simple. The file must be stored into the icon. Since the icon is 280k only you can't store bigger files. You can add bigger icon into your crypter (just follow my tut)

[Delta] - March 8, 2011, 1:12 pm

your unknown crypter is ud not fud

Eof is pointless... It uses new method.

I've made a tutorial (link in my signature). This is coded in vb.net

NETio - March 12, 2011, 5:05 pm

Thanks so much. I've been looking for a crypter source that uses reflection (I've been working on one for a long time with no luck), and then here this comes not only with reflection, but with a new method of storing the file? This is excellent. EOF Support should go in your TODO list (it's in it for my personal copy of this). A good idea would be to improve this program and then sell it. If you want, I can link you to a moderately functional RunPE. It works on x86, but x64 is hit-and-miss.

MikoTail - March 12, 2011, 5:49 pm

After I crypt with this, I try running my server to test it and it does not work.

It says "Adeleteme" has stopped working....

It's the runpe. It probably doesn't support it.
