Itachi Uchiha - March 8, 2011, 5:47 pm

"Asami Onohara is a seventeen-year old high-school student with a secret which has not been revealed to anyone: She is already married. Her husband, Kyosuke Ichimaru, is a Physics teacher in the same high school as her. However, even though they are officially a married couple, Asami's father forbids them to have any sexual contact until after Asami has graduated. Asami has to hide the fact that she is married to Kyosuke while trying desperately to further their relationship, and it does not help when there are so many interferences and obstacles from her father and other third parties. OK, I think someone besides me needs to watch this anime. Not because it's good but because it took me two hours to finish one episode. Not because I was busy, Nor was I remotely tired. It was just freaking boring. I've seen some animes, but what the fuck was this shit. It has two terribly reviews and I thought they were kind of bias, but Gezzsus.

The reason I'd like someone else to watch it, is because I think I'm being bias is because about 10mins before that I just finished I lovely anime of the same genre. So, I was kind of expecting some fun in it.

It actually sounds pretty interesting. I probably would of wanted to watch it if you didn't point out that you thought it was boring xD.

National Anthem - March 8, 2011, 10:24 pm

just reading the info sounded boring. not really into that stuff:p

The Laughing Man - March 9, 2011, 2:37 pm

It was meh, I've seen better but it wasn't terrible either.
