What are some of the biggest challenges you have faced in your personal or professional life, and how did you overcome them?

Interested in hearing your stories.

The biggest challenge in my professional life is my boss. She is very bad at giving instructions. She cant remember shit and top it all, she is very unorganized.

Ive been working under her for over two years. Imagine the level of patience and expertise Ive had to develop to get work done.

Can totally relate to this. Not in IT field but had a boss who was just like that. Every time she gave us instructions that didn't make sense I just thought "You do this just to justify your existence as management".

This entrepreneurial journey I have embarked on has been one of the toughest decisions I’ve had to make.

I had a car accident and miraculously nothing happened to me while the remaining of my friends are dead in the same car.

If my boss gave instructions that didn't make sense, I would be ecstatic. At least I would be able to try to make sense of it then. Just yesterday, she was giving me an earful about how I have not been following her instructions. So I inquired which ones I didn't follow. She mentioned a couple of them. I pointed out that those tasks were not assigned to me during the previous meeting. She denied it and said I was lying. I asked her to check the meeting minutes. She told me "You check it. I wouldn't be where I am now if I cant remember what I said in a meeting". I opened the minutes "she" circulated and pointed out that I was telling the truth. End result: She walked out of the meeting looking like a dumbass. ?

These sorts of drastic decisions are never a concern for an "adult" but I was torn. The after-taste of the chocolate was much better than the vanilla but the instant gratification of the near frozen vanilla struck a much higher level of dopamine for me at the time. Needless to say my eyes were filled with envy as I watched my brother in the front seat eat his chocolate scoop on the fresh waffle cone.
we lived the same life
