Thread: Arrest of Australian teenage boy for making Ai deep fake CP of his classmates

The Pact - June 12, 2024, 11:21 pm

Unfortunately I was only looking for Ai news, but this stuff keeps coming up when I read Ai news. ?
The arrest of an Australian teenage boy after manipulated images were shared of girls in years 9 to 12 at Bacchus Marsh Grammar, northwest of Melbourne.

One of the girls mothers said her daughter vomited after seeing the images of herself.

AI things are really getting out of hand too fast. It's time to change the laws around the world ASAP.

Sweet sorrow and sweat revenge, and maybe all schoolmates should be nicer to the guy and not bully him at all.
Always is 2 sides to a story, as always. It couldn't have happened from nowhere. This guy could have done such a thing.
And yes, spreading this kind of AI image should be done with precautions.

Unfortunately I don't know what this means, and you need to capitalise your "I"s in English.

This is one of those things were doing with AI that should stop.

I feel bad for kids these days. My kids are being homeschooled.

Ugh, this is horrible. We had a similar case nearby just before our daughter was born. Basically this guy was picking young teen victims on Facebook, and then was finding ways to get his teenage daughter into their life to get them close to work towards a sleepover. It wasn't until his third one that he was caught because the parents wouldn't allow it, so his daughter stayed at their place. He then got her to open a window and took the girl.

After that one, we basically set a life policy that our kids will not be posted on the internet (because there's also creeper groups for younger kids), and they will not have social media. We've even lost family over it because they're narcissists and want attention or something.

I watched a Netflix documentary film (I just forgot the title) and its about South Koreans doing this and using it to blackmail underage girls in either to extort or plainly have sex with them. These kinds of idiots are horrible and do not deserve to go to correction facilities and must go straight to jail.

Of course it could be done from nowhere. It's called lust or Antisocial Personality Disorder which means sadism and psychopathy. Making up a story out of nowhere about those girls 50 deserved it because they must have bullied him is disgusting. Bro, get your incel tendencies in check.

"About 50 girls at the school were included in the doctored images.

I went and picked my daughter up from a sleepover and she was very upset, and she was throwing up and it was incredibly graphic," Emily told ABC Radio Melbourne on Wednesday.

"As a parent we try and educate our children, our daughters [to have] private accounts [and] hone it in... it's just unavoidable. They were all private accounts.

Emily said the photos were mutilated and so graphic, she almost vomited too.

"How can you reassure them that the measures are in place that it won't happen again?"

Because males never do anything out of aggressive lust.
