Thread: Would anybody be interested in a celebrity Facebook account?

Well, I made a fake Facebook page for an NFL athlete about a month ago. The page has taken off and is really becoming succesful.

Page has around 4.7k friends. It gets around 200+ requests/day.

All accurate real life information of the athlete.

Friends have grown to believe it really is the athlete.

Has family members/real life friends of the athlete as Facebook friends. Around 80% of the people are current friends or former friends/schoolmates.

Need I say more? The athlete is Michael Vick.

Just seeing if this is what any members are in search of.

Link is available if needed.

I'm not sure if I'm selling it for sure at this point. Just seeing if there's a market for it.

And it has 4.7k friends. I'm pretty sure the limit is 5k friends lol.

It's most likely a fanpage then not an actual account.
More than 4.9k friends now. Told ya it's growing fast.

Account is now at the friend limit of 5000 and is still receiving many requests. This is great for spreading. What would be the right price for it?
