I made a news post about jester's aim. Idk how I get warn status for that, I never abused anyone's rep or asked for it. I'm not even sure how rep works here, well i'm about to read it. Also it was the same person all three times.

I was gonna try to be active here like on se7ensins and moddingdev, but I didn't think to keep going after having 10 warn status and -3 rep for reasons unknown to me. Thanks.

Don't complain about -rep or you will just get more.

You simply broke the rule and received warning. It will be expire though.

It depends, you should probably contact a staff member before posting a thread. Other than that if you find the rep you received as "flaming" or something around that category then it will most likely get removed. Note: If you want to know what you did, ask the guy who gave you the reputation.

If Phire Nuker gave you a warning, PM another staff. From what I've read and heard, seems like that guy was a complete nutjob/fucking asshole and just abused his powers.

Maybe the guy is mad at you somehow?
