Thread: [\[TUT\] Quickest & Fastest Way To Spread BOTNET Is..](#)

virusc - August 15, 2009, 11:53 am i found a way that some of you may already know or have seen before.

first step is to phish some facebook accounts (This is not needed but makes it faster)

Then make a fake website with video and title.
Go to Youtube.com, click a video, click view source.

In my example i use matacafe. but its all the same process.

now paste all the source into frontpage/dreamweaver and delete the playing video, replace it with a image, as seen in my screen shots, or anything simaliar. add hyper link to the image you added point the link to your Virus file stored online (use free hosts) call your virus CODEC.exe or ACTIVEEx.exe

Now save the page as: wachh-489348398.php unplaod to a free host, you now should have:

www.yourfreedomain/wachh-489348398.php

now goto facebook, login in the phished accounts and paste on some walls a message saying "Is this you in this video ? www.yourfreedomain/wachh-489348398.php

Before i edit.

[img]http://vctools.net/upload/image/43.jpeg[/img]

After i have saved.

[img]http://vctools.net/upload/image/44.jpeg[/img]

alot of ppl click this and you will see your botnet light up and ding ding with new and fresh victums. you can also use facebook live chat and talk to there friends. tell them you are famous on youtube and see what they reply with.... "Cool, show me video" Hook, line and sinker.

Kewlhotrod - August 15, 2009, 12:03 pm

Wtf?

That's genius. xD

MC' - August 15, 2009, 12:05 pm

tutorial could have been a little more clear but this is a great idea

iLL ReDBuLL - August 15, 2009, 12:06 pm

this has to be the best thing ive seen on spreading a bot fuck yes!

Foul - August 15, 2009, 12:10 pm

I don't get the message box, though.. Why would it display that certain message box and not a normal downloading window since you're making a hyperlink to your exe file..

Instead of downloading an active x component it replaces that with your virus.

(Aug 15, 2009 12:22 PM)Anxiety Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Instead of downloading an active x component it replaces that with your virus.Yeah but the activex message box he gets isn't natural since it's just an image w/ a hyperlink. o.O

Whatever, I'll try it later, maybe it works.

.Zyzz - August 15, 2009, 12:34 pm

Seems really good, might try it out later.

prorathack - August 15, 2009, 1:18 pm

GENIUS!!!

Now, find a way to install your botnet as a real component(you know right click the bar to install things) ..

that would be MORE genuine.

xl cHOcOLaTe - August 15, 2009, 4:17 pm

can u possibly link me to that error message so i can save it

virusc - August 15, 2009, 4:33 pm

Glad to see you dudes like my idea

Code "Seems really good"

"The best thing ive seen"

"This is a great idea"

"That's genius"

Please use your imagination people, i have only used this one example that i use. i also have a youtube page that i spread via phished facebook logins.

[img]<http://vctools.net/upload/image/45.jpeg>[img]

Use any filename for the hyperclick on video, codecs and videos are one so they work in line together.

tooshorttttttttt

Kewlhotrod - August 15, 2009, 5:31 pm

I'm sorry, that Youtube video just looks too damn fake, haha.

I'd take an image off an actual Youtube video... Separately hyperlink the video itself, and the play/fullscreen buttons, and code it to make an actual popup.

That'd be even more enticing. :)

virusc - August 15, 2009, 6:28 pm

it looks fake to us, because we know what we see there.
normal everyday pc users have no idea.

really glad you all like my tut. i came up with this idea while having a shit with a spliff.

BRAINS RUN WEIRD Huh ! hehe REP me please.

Kewlhotrod - August 15, 2009, 6:38 pm

No, I mean the average Youtube user will definitely note that that is not the original look of an embedded Youtube video.

As in, it looks like it came from a different site, and they will think differently. :P

Hobbes - August 15, 2009, 6:43 pm

lol, not many people fall a victim to ActiveX scams anymore...

Foul - August 15, 2009, 8:08 pm

Oooooohhh.. Now I get it. I thought that was a legit error message, I didn't know it was part of the image.. lol

How about making a fake youtube site and a fake adobe site?

Just print a text like "You need atleast Adobe Flash Player 10 to watch this video!" instead of the video and link the text to the fake adobe site.

That should work.

next time share some of what you smokin...

SIM-76286 - October 7, 2009, 9:22 am

This is a good way to spread, but its best to use a site that isnt too known like youtube since everybody has viewed youtube videos before and knows you dont need to download anything. Also, you could do something like a javascript popup that says something like "You need xxxxxx media player to view this high definition video, its FREE and 100% spyware and adware free!" with a couple of those images from sites like softpedia that say "this file has been tested and is 100% spyware free" to convince people further.

what? its not like this method is old now, its good for all of the useless social networking accounts you get tons of anyways.

[B]iishop - October 7, 2009, 10:04 am

Are websites hard to make? Like i wanna make one to put an exploit up, but i think its just to complicated and too much work. If somebody wants to team up PM me. Im guessing you can use two exploits or two of these things you talking about. lol. Not that bright when it comes to websites.

SIM-76286 - October 7, 2009, 10:07 am

The site is already made, you're just stealing the source code of another site, polishing it a bit and changing the video to an image that links to your virus. You can put some effort into it if you know HTML and make it more convincing though.

yes of course, I personally use wordpad, it organizes the code much nicer(than notepad) and displays all characters correctly.

What are you supposed to replace in the HTML code?

You never specified. I'm not exactly 100% fluent with HTML, so I'm not sure what the video code is.

Couldn't somebody just upload the source with the video edited out, and just type in "INSERT IMAGE HERE"

You have no idea how easier that would make this
