Thread: Booter, Booter, Crypter, Booter, Rat, Booter...

I think the title explains everything, but is everyone else seeing this trend?

Was just wondering if we could put together some ideas so we can see some variety in the marketplace.

I think some people don't realize that things sold don't have to be hacking tools.

My Ideas:

1. Firefox Addon (Steals info? Not Sure)
2. Apps which intergrate into Flash (Check Groovr in Music Section of the Forum).

This is a hacking forum, I think you should get over it.

Whilst I completely agree with what you're saying the only way to do anything about it is to get someone to code software for you, then sell it here on HF. If you can think of a good enough piece of software to sell, you'll profit by quite abit.

What would you like to see on the HF market?

Well i made a few suggestions, but if I had more time on my hands I'd do exactly that.

I agree fully, the only problem is that I don't know what people would be willing to buy if I programmed it. Don't want to waste my time to find no sales.
