Thread: [\[No Jailbreak\] How to wirelessly sync your device!](#)

iRun - July 24, 2011, 7:41 am

Requirements:

1. You must have a Spotify account. You can receive an invite HERE
2. You must have the Spotify desktop application. Windows or Mac OS X
3. And lastly the Spotify iPhone/iPod Touch app.

Steps:

1. Login to the Spotify Desktop Application
2. Login to the Spotify iPhone/iPod Touch app.
3. Your desktop Spotify app should recognize your iPhone/iPod, click "Sync this Device with Spotify".
4. Chose your options for syncing, and soon enough you will be wirelessly syncing your iPhone/iPod Touch!

ENJOY!!! ?

Very True!

I've been waiting for Spotify to come to America :D

iTunes has and... wait for it...

IT'S ALL FREE.

Unlike Apple's shelf life policy, they have all the music you could ever want or need.

Spotify is gonna take over, apple is gonna kick themselves for not competing with it. Like Dexus said it's FREE it's amazing!

The only drawback is the advertisements and when they implement only 10 hours per month. But the good part is the paid plan isn't that expensive...

and BTW I live in New York. I got an invite.

I seriously think that with enough time, Spotify will overtake iTunes. I mean, it even syncs your iPod!!!

Døn - July 24, 2011, 12:31 pm

Watch iTunes try to do what spotify does. But like always iTunes will fail at doing shit right

AnthonyWasH3r3 - July 25, 2011, 8:21 pm

Actually, iTunes has an idea that they came up with a couple months ago.

Streaming ALL of your music in a cloud. But it will cost $29 per month I believe, when it comes out.

Not NEARLY as good as spotify, and also not NEARLY as cheap.

Also, don't you have to have the premium plan to use the iPhone app?

I paid for the $5 plan and I'm loving every second of it! Dubstep playlists FTW!

Døn - July 25, 2011, 8:28 pm

I live in Cali; same here I want to get premium. I swear spotify is like a DJ in your pocket
