Simple program I made, scraps thousands of usernames in seconds, great for account creators. Instead of putting names like "skjdfhsiudfkhsd" or "MikeSmith2389", you can get names like "screechingbox" which looks much more natural. Might expand this project to an unique username generator, but right now it's still nice.

Sounds cool, now just add a password gen. and a email system and it would be a sick mass account creator! I would buy one if someone made one.

What do you mean by email system?

And thanks for the feedback.

Good release, although it would be nice if you would make it to where you can select an exact amount of users to generate. Just a thought! :)

Thanks for the idea, I'll add it right now.
