

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Hide/Crypt Link?

Jordan.. - August 17, 2011, 2:36 pm

How do you hide a link on a page?

My Site: <http://www.cashfile.co.cc/cashlinkz/landing.php?view=16>

As you probably already know its simple as click page source and finding the link.

Best Regards

Jordan

tyr4el - August 17, 2011, 4:30 pm

Maybe hide it in a javascript.. you cannot hide it with php since the output of php is always html cleartext...

bourd - August 18, 2011, 4:00 am

Sorry double posted. Delete this please staff.

bourd - August 18, 2011, 4:01 am

Try going to <http://bit.ly> [WARNING: potentially infected]/ they shrink your links and people can click it and be redirected to your full link.

Dreamt - August 18, 2011, 1:27 pm

Hello Jordan..,

If I understand correctly, you want to give visitors access to the page's content once they have completed a survey. If this is the case, the majority of Gateway style marketing programs have a feature called post back which sends data to the script including the users IP address. You can store this data in your database so, when the visitor who has completed the survey visits the page, the script checks to see if the visitor's IP address is in the database, if it is, displays the page's content.