if we use this tool, our facebook accounts might be hacked also, because i think you have a tool to know who uses this tool, and you will still know our usernames.

Yes. I too say tool excessively. Tool tool tool tool tool. Btw your a TOOL.

Lol jk man. But know this, what you just said is completely wrong. There is no "tool" that can hack into the FaceBook DB to see who's doing what from where and which IP that therefor tells him the account they are normally on. Infact if someone did know how to do that, they wouldn't even be using a program for it, they would be so advanced that they would have it done manually. You my friend need to go to school more often >.<

michaelair23 - October 8, 2011, 5:51 am

Depends if u know the person in real life but u can always reply on phishing but i cant tell u more since its forbidden nikhilraj - November 8, 2011, 3:06 am for every account you need to hack, you have to provide a diff mail id and better be prepared to answer questions by the help of his friends or himself by social engg

i have tried this many times and also succeeded.

just keep in mind that you cant use one email id for all facebook accounts you need to hack.

Twitchh - January 21, 2012, 1:20 am just recently hacked this facebook feel free to mess around while its open

EMAIL: jessicakowalczyk35@yahoo.com

PASSWORD: qwertyuiop1

satch000 - January 21, 2012, 9:56 am

Primo ;using SE you can guess the answer to the security question , Thus , lately , the security question page doesnt come anymore it just asks to try to recover your email using email providers (yahoo , msn ..Etc)

Secundo if the victim logs in using his password within the 24hrs , it automatically cancels the new pass request . so its not very useful wth active/daily users

thanks anyways :)

SeffYou123 - January 21, 2012, 12:30 pm

Youskate - May 17, 2012, 9:39 am

Will give it a try when i get home ! :D

Gorgomite - May 30, 2012, 12:24 pm

Just tried this, using an alternate Facebook account I have so that I can test Facebook's various privacy changes. If you get the security question right, it does indeed send an account recovery link to the email address you designate.

In other words, it works as stated.

However, there is one problem. If the person whose account you're accessing checks the email they signed up with, they will know something is up, because Facebook also sends an email there, giving them the option to lock the account while Facebook sorts things out.

So it might work best if you know that the person is going on a trip for a week or two and they won't have Internet access. Then you're free to play for a bit.

slapthejigaboo - June 1, 2012, 9:05 am you do have the option to switch the email addresses so the person can no longer sign in then switch back when you have done what ever it is smittyattheeagle - June 25, 2012, 10:12 am

This method might give you a one time pass to the account b/c the user will get an email about the password being changed. They will change it and you won't be able to access anymore.

Does anyone know how to get into an account without a notice being sent out?

tycooley - June 26, 2012, 2:37 am

Great guide man, Going to try this real soon!

Greatness - July 7, 2012, 12:28 pm

Easy facebook hack, Thanks! I'll be trying it.

JessiSlaughterxx - July 15, 2012, 11:23 am

This method only works for some accounts. If the user youre trying to hack never set up a security question then the only way to "hack" the account would be to gain access to the main email/mobile number.

Plus, even if you do successfully "hack" their account with the security question method, you need to wait 24 hours and if the user logs in within 24 hours, the process gets canceled.

So, its not so reliable and a bummer.

hot_noob - December 24, 2012, 8:43 pm

The problem is that even if you guess the answer you have to wait 24H hours, in that 24H hours the victim would simply login, know that someone tried to hack him and get his account back.

macacovelho - December 26, 2012, 10:05 am
