what dose it do?i have no idea.

havoc - October 30, 2009, 8:44 pm

You insert a text file with email accounts and their passwords and it checks each individual account automatically for you to see if they are working.

it then saves these accounts into another .txt file.

Question, can you get into trouble for checking 12,000+ emails? The proxy feature on this program is garbage. Will 'they' raise suspicion if you check that many?

Get a custom one made from scratch and check on scans.
