I gave him double obfuscate in his source . When people will deobfuscate the smart assembly protection then they will need to deobfuscate another one protection . So long to deobfuscate the second one Because that one fully encrypted + compressed

This downloader works like a charm! Thanks growlit!

Hookahice - September 3, 2011, 7:45 pm

I swear sometimes humans are so dumb...

This battle vs $hitcash links is somewhat sad I must say... all this effort and time + links + verifications + VPNS in some cases + money asking devs and other crap I have seen makes me wanna vomit... Isn't better to get your crap from private organized torrents sites instead of using these crappy $shitlinks in the first place? Or simply use other non-survey infested services?

I think anyone using #shitlinks doesn't deserve his/her files to be downloaded anyways!!! Seems bunch of asses for using those sites anyways! So why bother giving them the credit/hits for it! The best tool that will work against all these survey infested sites that want to know what color your sh1t was last week before you download a link is to AVOID THEM in the first place!

Just think about it for a moment...this tool (posted here and in many other posts) is probably going to be completely obsolete in few weeks...all developers (of those survey sites) have to do is implement another function that will break this tool's functionality (and other's as well)...

There is so many more file hosting services out there that are way faster and profitable then these crappy links with surveys. Why not use them...

[LND]-[Bloodman] - September 3, 2011, 7:54 pm
