

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: What is Cost Per Action marketing and how does it work?

FullyAutomatic - August 31, 2011, 4:59 pm

What is Cost Per Action marketing and how does it work? I heard that people make money with CPA marketing. How exactly does this all work? Please explain in detail.

neoxyte - August 31, 2011, 5:02 pm

<http://www.rsguides.net/>

Check out my site for an example. Just try downloading a file or something. You'll see what comes up. DONT actually complete the survey (unless you want to). I'm just showing you an example about how it works. You basically block content with survey widgets and then get paid for each lead. You need to sign up with a CPA network in order to do that.

FullyAutomatic - August 31, 2011, 5:05 pm

(Aug 31, 2011 05:02 PM)aonbyte Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) <http://www.rsguides.net/>

Check out my site for an example. Just try downloading a file or something. You'll see what comes up. DONT actually complete the survey (unless you want to). I'm just showing you an example about how it works. You basically block content with survey widgets and then get paid for each lead. You need to sign up with a CPA network in order to do that.

Is this an effective money making method? How much can an average person make a month with it without high investments?

neoxyte - August 31, 2011, 5:08 pm

If you use social network viraling and niches like video game keys (i.e. Dota 2 keys) you can make a decent 500-1000 a month.

FullyAutomatic - August 31, 2011, 5:14 pm

(Aug 31, 2011 05:08 PM)aonbyte Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you use social network viraling and niches like video game keys (i.e. Dota 2 keys) you can make a decent 500-1000 a month.

Is it legal to spam stuff on social networks like that?