Thread: [The Green Theme \[VB.NET\]](#)

hav0c1995 - September 2, 2011, 9:01 am

This is my second theme. I call it the "Green Theme".

Here's the image of the theme:

Here's the link to the source code of the theme:

<http://pastebin.com/NAXx0yas>

I have given proper credits in the source code.

How to install it:

Just copy and paste the Aeonhack's Theme Base v1.5.0 in a new class and then underneath it, copy and paste my theme's code and then build it and then you will see the controls in the toolbar at the left side.

I hope you guys like it.

Perplexity - September 2, 2011, 9:02 am

Damn, this looks really nice.

The only bad thing is the button, it doesn't quite fit in.

Zincco - September 2, 2011, 9:03 am

Wow, that's like EXACTLY like DE's theme :P

Doctor07 - September 2, 2011, 9:03 am

Not too bad at all dude, Very nice indeed! :)

Are you trolling? I am not a hax0r. I just created this theme by Aeonhack's tutorial.

IAmTheRealHacker - September 2, 2011, 9:12 am how to install this theme ??/

fucking tooo much shortt

B3cnoc - September 2, 2011, 9:12 am

Looks cool. I will download this and take a closer look at it.

Nice theme, great to see someone can actually follow AeonHack's tutorial WITHOUT C+P only and come out with something great!

First of all, make a class and add this code into it.

<http://pastebin.com/9v4AFzh8>

And then under that, Add my theme's code:

<http://pastebin.com/NAXx0yas>

It will work for sure.

You, my friend, are fucking retarded. He told you to add themebase 1.5, is there a themebase 1.5 in that? No, gfto.

FileX - September 2, 2011, 11:12 am

Looks nice, but the button doesn't really fit in there. Maybe add some gradients?

Yeah! They are bad. I am working on it.

smasherx74 - September 2, 2011, 12:31 pm

I don't like it at all, not very visual looks like something that would be expected as a windows 95 theme.

6e756c6c - September 2, 2011, 12:52 pm

I love it and I see quite a bit of potential for it.
