Thread: Homework help section

Tsgh Mike - September 6, 2011, 1:11 pm

I think that it would be helpful to some users to have a homework help section somewhere in the forums, or in a subforum for the lounge somewhere.

D3xus - September 6, 2011, 1:12 pm

That's not a bad idea, but I'm not sure how many people here on HF are at an age whereas homework is a problem.

Nonetheless I like the idea.

Glassy - September 6, 2011, 1:12 pm

That might be a pretty good idea mate. Good thinking and good suggestion.

I am sure there are alot of members that are interested in homework helping.

b0lt - September 6, 2011, 1:14 pm

I like this idea. There are probably alot of students on this forum. And then omni should also add a "homework helper" award! :D Or a group..

I think just having the section is fine, not an award or a group for it.

If you read the announcements, all free groups are getting dismantled at some point. There is no purpose in having a group, just the section would be useful.

But yeah, I think Omni should at least ask the groups to pay him $2,000 before dismantling them and not giving them a chance to give him a good reason for it or something.

Moralitas - September 6, 2011, 1:21 pm

Well, they can always be linked to SF.

I was also thinking about this, as it would bring more traffic to SF.

Bigandrewgold - September 6, 2011, 2:07 pm

I think it would be full of people asking others to do their Algebra 1 homework for them.

Tsgh Mike - September 6, 2011, 2:28 pm

It would still be a small plus for some users.

H??????a X™ - September 6, 2011, 2:32 pm

I support this, since it would be a rather active sub forum, considering most users are still in school of some sort and on the odd time do post threads concerning their homework.

That is true. Omni could make a section that re-directs users to Support Forums, would increase activity maybe over there.

Xenochrist - September 6, 2011, 3:10 pm

With school already starting, I think this would be a great section to add!

Little Hippo - September 6, 2011, 3:12 pm not bad. i would actually contribute a lot and use it a lot

Dwazz - September 6, 2011, 3:13 pm

I vouch I want this sub-forum.
Math is hard as fuck.

NavTech - September 6, 2011, 3:27 pm

I vouch for this because my Geometry, Physical science-chemistry and Algebra 2 can be a little daunting at times

D3xus - September 6, 2011, 4:16 pm

Anyone else gonna see this? Sounds like a great idea.

Illumin?ti - September 6, 2011, 4:17 pm

This would totally be great especially for me and Geometry this year Sophomore!

Sasori - September 6, 2011, 4:18 pm

If anyone needs help with there homework, it's called open up the work book, or use the internet, or simply ask there parents for help.
Disapproving this idea. Sorry OP.

Shutting up :/

ON TOPIC:

It might also be a problem with members deliberately giving people wrong answers in this section.

HOLA - September 6, 2011, 4:24 pm

This idea sounds real good to me, hope its approved!

Disapproving this idea. Sorry OP. First of all the book doesn't always have the answers during assignments they usually implement new things that are more advanced to test your understanding of the material. And 90% of the time parents don't remember stuff like geometry unless there work field consists of geometry and stuff of the like on a daily basis. Google isnt always the best answer in a place like this because you cant really Google something like

Two circles both of radii 6 have exactly one point in common. If A is a point on one circle and B is a point on the other circle, what is the maximum possible length for the line segment AB?

- (A) 12
- (B) 15
- © 18
- (D) 20
- (E) 24

and expect to really be guided through the equation so that you actually understand that material. That way come test time you sit like a lump on a log because Google just gave you all the answers on your homework and now you don't have Google. If the sub forum was created people would be able to help walk people through what ever problem that they may be having.

Could be a possibility of cleaning up the forum a tad unless trolls try to ruin it like they ruin the forum.

BritishKitten - September 6, 2011, 11:07 pm

I'm liking this idea, It could show who's really helpful and who isn't! but it could also lead to people saying wrong answers on purpose.

You know nothing about this. Don't assume you do.

@OP: This has been suggested and denied many times.

People go to Support Forums for stuff like this, adding all of that here would only invite trolls and lessen SF's potential activity.

Nostre - September 6, 2011, 11:26 pm

I like the idea, and since school is starting user's will need it =).

Air - September 7, 2011, 2:23 am

Yeah this would be a great section to add. I'd like to see this.

Neal Caffrey - September 7, 2011, 3:38 am

I'd like to see this c:

Would be nice not having Homework threads in the Lounge section :\

Receiver - September 7, 2011, 3:48 am

lol.. the issue with homework is that there on hf and and doing it

Eclipse - September 7, 2011, 3:56 am

I totally agree with this. There are many people like me, who are Students, or the people who want to help others strive for the best in their educational life. So, I hope Omniscent adds a Homework Help section.

Boss - September 7, 2011, 4:06 am

yes but omni wont do it so theres no point in even trying

This is also true but the supportforums idea isn't all that bad either but i really think this is a good idea.

shijil619 - September 7, 2011, 4:31 am

It would be so nice to have a section like this! I have a lot of homeworks to do everyday! :(

integer - September 7, 2011, 4:34 am

I'm completely against this idea. Not only because SF already has a section for that, but it'll just be filled with threads of people posting their homework getting other people to do it for them. There will rarely be any help threads, it'll just be a bunch of kids finding that window of opportunity to get another person to do their dirty work because they lack proper comprehension and attention span.

+mK - September 7, 2011, 5:05 am

Well, the thing is - it'd be hard for some. Some will actually be looking at help, others will be looking for answers. I like the idea, though.
