Thread: [\[TuT\]How To Make A Energy Ball In Photoshop\[TuT\]](#)

Yugen - September 7, 2011, 11:22 pm

I have been looking for this and i finally found out how to do it so i thought that i would share it with all of you On HF.So Anyway Here it is.

1.open up the picture you want.

2.Then next thing that you do is,Make A new layer.Make it black,Then go to Filter>Render>Len's Flare>105 prime and then ok.Next you should get a image that look's like this.

3.Change the Image you just made to Hard Light.Then Move the Energy to where you want it.And then At the Very Bottem Right corner click (Add Vector Mask).Next Click YouR (Gradient Tool) on the left side.At the top after you Click your Gradient Tool,At the top left click on (Radel Gradient).And make sure you after White color's on the left and not black.Now Dup your layer's just in case.Now go to your image and drag away the dark parts you do not want around the ball.Now your image should look like this.

nice tut m8. Im bad at stuff like this.

Waka Flocka - September 9, 2011, 11:57 am

doesnt really look like a energy ball just light that should be placed higher on his hand

Brave - September 11, 2011, 3:53 am

Nice TuT, this will come In handy for a lot of people.

Hailow - September 11, 2011, 5:23 pm

You could add blending option and put outer glow.

ril14ey - September 11, 2011, 5:44 pm

Nice quick tut

Thankyou

Will give it a shot :) sometime

confuze - September 12, 2011, 2:57 am

LoL. not really an energy ball but more of a light source.

Gonna try it

Nice tutorial bro thanks good job :) :))

Zazyt - September 12, 2011, 4:40 am

Very simple, yet very awesome! Thanks for this :D

Echoes - September 12, 2011, 5:04 am

Looks just as simple as a 35px white soft brush but okay.

jasonjie88 - September 12, 2011, 6:31 pm

Like the concept. Simple but cool. Nice image XD

It looks like the light is emitting from his wrist joint, but apart from that it looks pretty cool, I don't know what I'd use it for though.
