Thread: Scammed By a Uber. To the Tune of 110 Dollars.

Neal Caffrey - September 8, 2011, 4:51 am

Hey Guys.

So I've just been scammed to the tune of $110 Dollars.

I'm basically selling a 98k Facebook Likes page, and he offered 110 Dollars.

He then asked he first be made an Admin of the page, so I made him an Admin. He deleted me as an Admin, And now he won't respond to my PMs.

I would like to either have this user Banned for trying to scam someone and causing grief to me. Or Have him pay up the 110 That he owes me.

I deleted my PMs but I can prove they were sent because I continuously pressed Backspace Until I reached His Message.

To be honest it was your own fault. If you knew he scammed before he should of been made to go first on everything.

slask - September 8, 2011, 5:48 am

Why not tell Facebook you made an admin of this guy by mistake and he kicked you out.. They should be able to see in their logs.. At least it's worth a try..

You can also do a search on his HF uid: 410890. That is part of why you should always include a link to the scammer's profile in a report.

<https://hackforums.net/search.php>

Search by keyword -> search entire post

It looks like a few people have had bad deals with him.

Neal Caffrey - September 8, 2011, 5:53 am

Thanks very much.

i didn't know you could do searches on UID because im actually quite new here.... :(

But thanks very much :D

Hopefully this will help my case :)

georgieboy - September 11, 2011, 8:37 pm

Did you talk to Facebook yet? Give facebook HELL!! Explain the situation over and over until your ears bleed. MAKE them understand. At least this way they can shut the page down if not give it to you.

As in, their questions don't help me in any way at all...

I despise UB3R scammers. They take advantage of non upgraded members. I hope you get your things back.

IllusionistAR - October 2, 2011, 7:56 pm

If i was you i would try and contact facebook over and over again. I have done that and they helped me out. Just let them know that you added him by mistake and he kicked you and took your page and all you want is your page back. They'll be able to see that he kicked you.

Neal Caffrey - October 2, 2011, 8:10 pm

Yeah but Where to I post my question? :S
I looked around, could you link me? :D
And I looked on the Help Page and all i found was a Q&A Which didn't help me AT All.

Well, I actually didn't know he was a scammer.

This was my first Trade on HF, and I assumed that because he was Uber and had 200 Rep, that he would be legit.

He had NO Neutral and 1 negative...

Anyway, I was a noob at trading back then :\

And thanks :)
