The edition you are currently reading is the 58th full edition. To read any older editions of HF News, please go here.

Omniscient decided to post his full story about 9/11 which took him 4 hours to write at his blog Vbum. He said in it,

"The Twin Towers. The World Trade Centers. They represented a great deal to me. They represented New York, a memory with my grandfather, and a deep desire to achieve. In a way the WTC inspired me to be more."

You can read more of his story and share your own story and comments about it here.

The official 9/11 memorial thread has been created. It can viewed here. This thread is for those who wish to share their stories or experiences of the day or for those that want to provide support or condolences.

The Premium Ebook Bazaar section is now ready for submissions. Please read the Premium Ebook Bazaar Procedures and Policies help doc for complete information about the new section. The section will be moderated by Cam G and -BoodyE-.

In a continued effort to raise the quality of the marketplace and to minimize scammers, sales trashers, and ban evaders, a member must now have a reputation greater than 0 to post in the Marketplace. This does not include the Marketplace Discussions forum or its sub-forums. You can read the official announcement here.

Now only l33ts and ub3rs can now post threads in Gamertags section of the Marketplace. It is also to be noted that you can't offer Gamertags in any other section of the forum including the auctions, premium, or secondary sections. This decision was taken in order to reduce the number of scammers and ban evaders. You can read the official announcement here.

The private group Minecrafters was created on 5th September, 2011. It is a group of HackForums' Minecraft players and enthusiasts. The group is led by Dylan and ?Pink ?Floyd.

Egypt is now country blocked from HackForums.

The option Double Posting is now removed from the list of report options.

The group named Dead has now been changed to Closed.

[img]http://goo.gl/0zRhM[/img]

Yet another member has joined those with over a thousand reputation, welcome to the top S???d??.

It's no joke to change your name to "Omniscient" for the member Rhythm did so, and shortly after, was repfucked. Just a word to the wise, if you're even going to try to change your name to Omniscient for a laughs, you'd best not send private messages inviting people to staff too.

To many it seems that Judge Dredd has been repfucking everyone who neg-reps him, and revenge repping as well. As of recent, it seems he has stopped. If you look on his given reps, almost all of his negative reps are on people who have recently been repfucked. On other news, he did just pass one thousand reputation multiple time with many attempts to keep it under this milestone.

Tasemu, the anime fanatic has developed the "Otaku Handbook" a guide for anyone wishing to learn more about anime or find a new series to follow. Be sure to check this out.

We wish to send out a special thanks today to the member Deltron for spending much of his time to reach undergraduate status so he can help the members of HF, and he will also be continuing his training offsite. See his congratulations thread here.

Thoth has been repfucked for the fourth time. How many times this will happen is unknown, he seems to have a knack for losing all of his green apples.

Anyone looking for a good laugh can just see this thread, alabama accidentally added everyone online to his ignore list. It seems that the staff don't care, as Rusty_V told him it was his problem and he needs to deal with it.

Not much is known yet involving the Writers usergroup, members are still anticipating Omniscient's announcement. Just a notice to all members, please stop bothering itylernallen and Omniscient with your questions, they will all be answered in due time. (This includes threads asking about the group.)

Thousands gathered on Sunday Morning at New York's Ground Zero. Some stood silently while others cried, each mourning the loss of the victims of the September 11, 2001 attacks as their names were read aloud.

"They were our neighbors, our friends, our wives, children and parents.", New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg said, as he led the commemoration along with President Barack Obama. The ceremony was at the site of the World Trade Center and was bustling with security personnel around the area as they continued to search for the alleged plotters of another terror strike.

At the ceremony, Obama and the first lady stood behind bullet-proof protection barriers. Former President George W. Bush, who was president at the time of the 9/11 attacks, read a letter by Abraham Lincoln sent to a woman who lost five sons in the Civil War.

"I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save."

Those who lost loved ones in the attacks stepped forward to read their names. In all, 2,753 people died on two airplanes and on the ground when the planes crashed into the World Trade Center towers, causing their collapse. That total does not include the 10 hijackers on board the planes. The total number of dead in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania was 2,977 people, not including 19 hijackers.

The mourners at various sites observed moments of silence at specific timings. 8:46 a.m., the time when American Airlines Flight 11 crashed into the North Tower of the World Trade Center.

9:03 a.m., the time when United Airlines Flight 175 struck the South Tower.

9:37 a.m., the moment American Airlines Flight 77 struck the Pentagon, killing 184 people.

9:59 a.m., the time the South Tower collapsed.

10:03 a.m., silence will fall on Shanksville, Pennsylvania, where passengers aboard United Airlines Flight 93 thwarted a hijacking plot and crashed the plane into the ground.

This report was possible thanks to various media websites and television news coverage. The condolences of many of our members goes out to the families affected by the 9/11 attacks.

Here are a few of the stories the members of HF decided to share:

Correct

That day I was at school, typical day, when my mom came to pick me up early. She was worried! We went home and watched the news like usual. At this time I did live in NY. My father and 2 uncles were all NYC Firefighters so they were called. My father was on the 2nd truck there so he had to go to the top of the south tower. My two uncles were on a different truck so they went in the north tower. As we were watching the news, we heard the South Tower collapsed. At the time, we knew they were there, but not in which tower. Later that night, we got a call from his officer and my mother was crying. I asked her whats wrong and she said "Your father is gone" and I started crying. My father was the biggest role model to me. Then later that night we found out my uncles were in the north tower when it collapsed. About 2 weeks later we got a call from someone who worked in the south tower and they asked if we were the family of my father and we said yes and they said thank you so much. Your father saved my life and many others. I was very proud of him, and still am.

O1d_2_H@Ck1n™

My heart is with all the people who lost friends and family members who sadly lost there lives to the horrible and devastating events that took place on the 11th of September 2001. I myself had a friend who I used to speak to on the phone all the time etc and I used to meet him when I went to America and sadly he was working on the day that it took place. He lost his live, he was uncovered from the rubble and he was of believed to be one of the first jumpers, my heart stopped when I heard the news and this is why every single year I show my respect to the 9/11 survivors and those who died and the family's.

?DragScope

I think I was around 6-7 years old when this occurred and all I can remember is that I was on Fifth Avenue when it happened. My only guardian who was with me at the time was my Mom. I heard an explosion and looked back towards where it came from and all I could see was swarms of people running towards it and a mist of red and green smoke. My father did work 2 blocks from the trade centers at a local tax business, which was right in the middle of the whole thing. My mother then noticed it was the trade center, and called my grandparents to meet at her house. After I was dropped by my house I looked out the window to watch the tops of the building collapse. In the building my uncle, 3 cousins, and niece were present. My uncle was a sales representative for a major company inside the trade center. My cousins were there working for a convention that was taking place for long amounts of time, and my niece worked as a Bondsman. As my mother went to find my father, she did, and they came to the house, both crying and filthy, with black smoke all over them. My mother found my father trying to look for family through the chaos of the rubble. Then I don't really know what happened next but when I woke up or last remembered, the house was quiet and silent to the touch. I walked into the living room and saw my aunt, grandparents, mother, father, and my other set of grandparents with a grim look all upon there face. I knew in my heart that something was wrong, besides the 9/11 attack. Then I can barely remember who told me but all 5 of my family members died. My uncle was in the first tower at the 4th floor if I remember correctly, my cousins were all in like the 27th floor where the the building collapsed, and my niece was in the 2nd building on the 16th floor.

We were all devastated, or they were, I didn't really get it at the time. Now I do, and wish I could have spent more time with them.

Interview 1 - alabama (Click to View)

Cobalt+: Hey, alabama. How are you doing today?

alabama: Hey, I'm doing pretty good. Watching the Cowboy's and Jet's game.

Cobalt+: So, you're into sports? Do you play any?

alabama: Nope, I don't play any currently. I used to play football but then I switched to a school that didn't offer any sports.

Cobalt+: That doesn't seem like a very fun school. Do you do good in school?

alabama: Well, last year I was going through some personal problems, and I dropped out. I just started back this year going to an alternative school. It copes with me very well.

Cobalt+: Well, I hope those problems are resolved. Do you think your time on HF effects your school work?

alabama: Definitely not. I put real life responsibilities before any online activity. And yes, everything is getting better. =) alabama: When I first joined, I believe I found it through googling msn spammer or something. I didn't actually start becoming an active poster until about May or so. I registered on January 1st. At first, I was confused, the forum was huge, there were many members, and overall I was lost. I started making a few friends and eventually found my way around.

Cobalt+: Seems like you know your common sense. When you joined HF, what kept you here?

Cobalt+: My journey was the same way. It seems you've kept your name as alabama for the most part. Any reason behind this?

alabama: Hmm, I've thought about it, and I can't come down to the origin of where I got my name. I started using it as an online alias in about 2009.

Cobalt+: Hmm, I see. Well, I have to wrap this interview up. Any shoutouts or comments you would like to make?

alabama: I'd like to make a shoutout to ScripT, Sync, and Rhythm. They've been good friends for awhile now. Is it alright if I say a joke?

Cobalt+: Sure, go ahead.

alabama: I was going to tell you a gay joke, butt fuck it.

Cobalt+: Haha, that was a good one. Well, you have a good day.

alabama: Take care.

I find this funny wouldn't you agree?

Scooter - September 12, 2011, 5:06 pm

Let me start by saying that I didn't think that this was a great edition - it was merely satisfactory. I've noticed several grammatical and spelling errors and much of the News was known. With that being said, there was several News topics not covered such as Wolves being appointed as a leader of Alliance, Codevade's 1000 rep milestone, Riggs and Revoke's Jokester's awards, and Zeon's Master Donator award. Also, please use the same color when referring to the admin colors. Finally, I'd like to say that I loved alabama's interview - it was not as formal as the other ones have been, and it was funny.

PS: Great job on not overstating the word Omniscient.

Now for the problems:

Quote:It is full of many heart breaking and saddening stories. They may even make you cry. Sounds extremely unemotional...

Quote:The Premium Ebook Bazaar section now ready for submissions.

It should say "The Premium Ebook Bazaar section is now ready for submissions."

Quote:Omniscient where he uses his new DE razor that was bought from his birthday donations a few weeks ago. He broke the video into parts; they can be viewed here and here respectively. He also made a thread about it which can be viewed here.

It should say "Omniscient made a video where he uses...."

Quote:Egypt is now country blocked from HackForums. This is due form the repeated attacks on HF.

form should say "from"

Quote:It's no joke to change your name to "Omniscient" for the member Rhythm did so, Sounds awkward - for the member Rhythm did so???

Quote:Tasemu, the anime fanatic has developed the "Otaku Handbook" a guide for anyone wishing to learn more about anime or find a new series to follow. Be sure to check this out.

Should say "Tasemu, the anime fanatic, has developed..."

On other news, he did just pass one thousand reputation multiple time with many attempts to keep it under this milestone.

Should say multiple "times"

I'd like to know who the final editor of the News is - there are always several grammatical errors. This week's edition was especially bad in these errors. Please respond to my opinion.

Hold your dicks guys.

So is Zach the new leader? Or are you getting someone else?Positive was kicked out from leader because he got nothing done at all, I made Zach a leader because he has experience with the Rats Crew for over 2 years now.

In the Rats Crew, Zeus stepped down after being inactive for a while, we were sad to watch him go but we think that Existence is going to be a great leader in RC.

This doesn't make any sense whatsoever.

Always nice to read HF News. Nice edition.

Whiz4rd - September 13, 2011, 5:10 am

Another great news on HF, and is this released along with the celebration of the 9/11?

Gold - September 13, 2011, 5:11 am

These editions suck more and more every week, User News should be the biggest section lately all I see are cyan names called Omniscient on there....

Laggings - September 13, 2011, 5:35 am

Not going to lie, the News has been getting more grammatically incorrect since Cobalt+ has been running it.

Omniscient brings many new changes to the site every week. So, it is normal that his name appears 3 times in the HF News.

Yes you're totally right.. Omniscient made a video using his new DE razor that he bought with our money.. that's a huge fucking new that we all care about!

Also - Omniscient posted his personal thoughts on 9/11, lets all read it, since it matters more than the rest of the 1287512897591857 topics made by other users.

Yeah. Omni owns this site. People want to know what new things he has been doing. Hence, almost every new topic that he creates is newsworthy. I can understand that you may not care about it, but that does not mean no one cares.

50% is just your assumption, mate. I think the majority of people reading the news want to know what new things Omniscient is doing these days. Anyways, each to their own.

I suggest the HF News find more interesting topics throughout the bragging , gaming section, and/or lounge.

Headlines is concerned with anything that affects the site overall. So, yeah, if admin or staff do something, it is more likely that it is newsworthy and people want to know about it. If you don't like reading what Omni does, don't; others do.

Go look for threads outside of the "Rules, Announcements, News and Feedback" Section.

And stop deleting my perfectly good argument on this thread.

It's just showing everyone how scared you guys when you're confronted. You just click report because you can't take the cold hard truth.
