Just got my copy and it looks a great buy already, gives you all then info you need to make a educated bet. Too many international games on just now for me to bet (Don't bet on internationals kids) but at the weekend I'll throw some decent money behind this.

Voucher.

thanks for the voucher mate i hate international matches my team "your" team always get a man injured for about 8 weeks eg our left back
:( hopefully it helps you with your betting it is good for small teams as people don't know alot about them

schopnebauer - October 9, 2011, 11:29 am i love football, but i would love to understand what this program actually does?

how is it different than any other football statistics website? i.e stats365 etc...
thanks

thanks
the program looks at to teams previous results and compares them and gives a percentage for the best home win , best away win and best draws i have never used stats365 but it gives an accurate percentage eg

0.73245834259053

which would = 73.245834259053 % chance of that happening eg for a home win

.illogical - October 9, 2011, 11:42 am

Interested in a vouch copy, will post review after using program.

Football Predictor - October 9, 2011, 11:49 am

it analyses the teams performances and displays the best wins , losses and draws for the games on what day there is alot of other features but that is basically what the program is for

No way did you put on £2.50 with a £45 return on one game lol? It must have been a 4 fold or something?

I don't see how people could buy this sorry, in my opinion leagues below the premier league you can't predict because they're such competitive and surprising. Even the premiership these days is quite hard to predict.

KEYIRC - October 18, 2011, 2:37 pm

Football is awful in my opinion, Never enjoyed it myself, and there are a few other products on the market with better guis that do it alot cheaper.

GL with sale tho :)

Football Predictor - October 22, 2011, 9:23 am
