<http://www.likeviews.com/facebook.php>

<http://www.likeviews.com/youtube.php>

<http://www.likeviews.com/google.php>

You can only see it if you have an account on likeviews.net.

I made the deface in about 5 minutes, so forgive me for it being a bit of a fail.

(Being a bitch to show, if it doesn't show up, let me know.)

October 09, 2011 - Webmaster contacted - No Response

October 15, 2011 - Website defaced and method published.

October 15, 2011 - Webmaster responded - Offered pay to find further exploits and claimed to have fixed the previous XSS.

October 16, 2011 - Website defaced using the same method on the same pages.

It isn't showing up for me, bro.

My cousin was on likeviews today at my house and saw this.

I clapped and laughed.

If I knew who then I would have contacted them on here instead of email... But webmasters should always check their emails.... :)

Lol thanks for letting me know to fix it.

You can still do this to like 90% of the other similar websites.

Hey guys, I was wondering how else you can hack a site other than SQLi and XSS??? For example, a site like this:

<http://www.miraedwardsdesign.com.au/>

Thanks!
