

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [\[How to\] Create a simple lockscreen theme](#)

Coffee - October 30, 2011, 9:45 pm

Welcome to my next tutorial, this tutorial will be showing you how to make a basic lockscreen.

Step 1:

Create your theme folder and call it themename.theme, this is how winterboard knows its a theme, inside this you put your 320x480 wallpaper called LockBackground.png and also a folder called Bundles. Grammar is important in this.

Step 2:

Inside your Bundles folder you want to create 1 (or 2) folders. I'll explain what these folders do:

com.apple.Springboard, inside this folder you can put your own custom system strings files so that for example you can change your slide to unlock text etc.

com.apple.TelephonyUI, this is where you put the images that you want your lockscreen slider to be.

Step 3:

You will now want to create the images for your lockscreen, these should be named:

iOS5

BarBottomLock@2x~iphone.png
BarBottomLock~iphone.png

etc

iOS4

BarBottomLock@2x.png
BarBottomLock.png

etc

This image shows you the rest of the names:

There you go thats all you need to create a simple lockscreen theme, for more info on what each image does, navigate to /System/Library/PrivateFrameworks/TelephonyUI.framework/ and look at the stock images

FeaR™ - October 30, 2011, 9:56 pm

Great tut. I'm going to start creating them thanks to you!
Thanks! Keep the great threads coming!

Windows 7 was my idea - October 30, 2011, 9:57 pm

This only for apple i assume, if so such a shame you should make one for android.

Cheers

Grin - October 30, 2011, 9:57 pm

Very nice I see that you are into theming. That's good so am I.

Coffee - October 30, 2011, 9:58 pm

(Oct 30, 2011 09:56 PM)Xela Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Great tut. I'm going to start creating them thanks to you!
Thanks! Keep the great threads coming!
Thanks :D don't worry, i'll be sharing all my iPhone/theming wisdom on here

Happy™ - October 30, 2011, 11:00 pm

broken links... nice tutorial though!