Can you link me to them? I can only find one thread of yours which you made in powerpoint. I used Photoshop to make mine and it took around 3 minutes.

Calm down, you come to my thread and basically say my thread design is st and say tell me to check yours out for ideas when yours are just text...in powerpoint.

Also, learn to spell before trying to act cool. Now leave my thread and boot up Powerpoint, thanks.

Click my signature for some tips on thread designing guys, one color isn't the best idea.

Please check my rep, the negatives we for stupid reasons. I came back from like -40 rep to this. So, I think that's a good recovery. Leave my thread now please. Also I checked out your 'Should I release this?' and I like:

How you added two custom shapes, added a gradient. Then an outline then hit ctrl + d (Powerpoint duplicate) and didn't even send the layer to the back and resized it a little and added some word art. Congratulation in making all this in Powerpoint.

<http://www.mediafire.com/?1xvu4q9tbxbq73z> Think before you speak -.-

I don't think you can read or spell very well, but please can you leave my thread.

Hopefully the spaces helped you read the post better. Oh and you saved the powerpoint as a picture then imported it into photoshop.

Your right Dinosaurs but he thinks I made them in power point because they look so good. He's basically saying I don't have the potential to make nice thread designs so I must of used PowerPoint Wrong, I'm saying they don't look very nice and mine are simple for a reason. Please go and check out Cute's guide and leave my thread, you are obviously like 11-12 so you shouldn't be on this forum altogether.

Nice paint work here by the way.

Reseller - December 18, 2011, 5:37 pm

I just looked at every thread design you made and they all look like shit, I am not trying to be mean I am just speaking the truth. And OP, I love this thread design, the colors make the simplicity fit it well. Keep up the great work!

Not bad, it's actually a pretty good basic thread design. People should stop hating. It may not be the best, but is far from the worst. Bottom line, I like it!

Thanks, it only took 3 minutes. I wasn't trying hard just wanted to get up a simple thread design for people to use if they wish. Thanks again, I will probably be making a more complex thread design soon. Thread design #2 has been completed. Hope you like it.

Great job if this is your first time, but next time add some more effects so it looks more professional. Whether it be gradient, gloss, inner glow, interface etc. Not bad at all just far too simple.
