Well this is the first theme I've ever worked on. I will try to learn more but not for now.

It's still available in many other themes here. You didn't have to post off this basic tutorial version, do something unique, then post what you've got.

No offense, but there is nothing really unique or new here. You need to learn a few more tricks (gloss, gradients, hatches, animation, etc.) before you will get any kind of praise from theming. It takes a bit more than lines and gray colors. Sorry to burst your bubble. You are definitely headed in the right direction though.
