Vouch to my brother!!!

.bLaZeD - December 24, 2011, 7:24 pm

Hey guys. Since the updater was failing in .NET Seal, I made one of my own. Will edit this when finished with update. PM me once I confirm.

EDIT:

Finally fixed everything that I wanted to. Please PM me for the newest version AND provide license details, otherwise I'm not responding.

ChangeLog:

Updater Added

XP Users resource error - hopefully fixed.

Few minor security changes.

Enjoy.

HakkuR - December 25, 2011, 5:02 am

Hello man I am not sale trashing but I think it's not fair to give the picture 0/35 because as it say the scan was made a very long time ago, and now it's 5/35.

I'm just saying, please fix the FUD problem, thanks.

Great products, Great member and legit transactions.

.bLaZeD - December 30, 2011, 1:19 pm

Guys, honest to god it is FUD. There is a problem with the crypter for some reason on the compilation which is getting you guys the kazy detection. Hell, if you don't believe me I'll make a video of me crypting then scanning. I'm trying my best to fix it.

?y??rion - December 30, 2011, 1:28 pm

It's a amazing product ! vouch for .bLaZeD & HakkuR ! He is a great coder ! ?

?y??rion - December 30, 2011, 2:14 pm

Well let's break it down, seriously.

Program can't compile properly = A faulty application

Title says it's FUD = Users are reporting back that it's 5/35.

Where's the shit here? Oh wait, it's coming from your mouth.

Also, I'm not a kid.

Also, I'm not a kid.Lets break it down correctly.

It compiles just fine.

Its skipping a step, that is causing the 5/35, but for me it's FUD, therefore the title is correct. I am fixing the problem right now.

EDIT x2:

Sorry for the b.umping. Finally fixed everyone. If it did nto udpate, please PM me with your license details so I can give you a new one. Sorry for all this bullshit, but its finally fixed.

Good job blazed keep it fud he my bitch and goes good job.

Hexxus - January 12, 2012, 3:03 pm

What version of .netframework does the slave need to have for this to run on their PC? Is it default on all vista and newer computers? Also do we need to use the cyrpters start up with this?

HakkuR - January 12, 2012, 3:32 pm

Net framework 2.0 is what it needs to run and it will run on vista and higher.

Use the backshades startup man it should work.

frenetika - January 21, 2012, 1:19 am i used it and i run the blackshades server without crypt and i reboot and works good but when i sue this crypter i reboot and nothin happen

Ambushed - January 21, 2012, 1:57 am

Just bought this and it seems very good so far :D Thank you.

Just tried to crypt something, i came up with an Error then continued to bring up errors after i clicked OK. It then just shut down flex crypter, it has done this twice now... any idea whats wrong?

Just noticed that this only happens if i click "Enable Anti's" box.

.bLaZeD - January 21, 2012, 10:00 am

If you can pm me the error msgbox I can try to help you.

(Jan 21, 2012 11:00 AM).bLaZeD Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you can pm me the error msgbox I can try to help you.

I wouldve pm'd you the message box but there was litterally 10's of them, all saying a variety of errors.

a few are

Error:Identifier expected

Error:Invalid expression term '%'

Error: ; expected

Error:Invalid expression term '='

Error: ; expected

Error: ; expected

Error:Invalid expression term ','

That is the list of errors, each error being a different message, it then continues changing the expression term.

This only seems to happen when i select the enable anti's option.

.bLaZeD - January 21, 2012, 3:17 pm

Ah, I see the error. Looking into fixing that now.
