Thread: Suggestion for improving the search function \(Search.php\)

Will and Integrity - January 1, 2012, 10:23 pm

I think there should be an option to only search posts that you've posted in. It would be easier to just search for a keyword contained in a post you've made then to search through every post you've ever made. By posts I mean posts and threads.

I like this idea I noticed it can be hard to find some threads once and a while.

It would be a great idea but it is NOT easy to do. It would be a heavy modification and a difficult one at that.

I doubt it. Omniscient writes PHP, I'm pretty sure. He's legit.

That's great. But you don't understand how many things would need to be edited to support this. It's not as simple as editing the search.php file.

I support this idea too :3

Would make it alot easier when going through giveawwys -.-

I don't get it.

Where you can put your name, put it there.

Then press "search entire post" and you get all results with your posts.. you enter a keyword and you get all your posts with that keyword in it

I think your idea is already implemented

Quoted for the truth. To add to what +Pirate said, this what you have to do:

- 1) Go to <https://hackforums.net/search.php> and in the keyword box, put what you want to search for; click search entire post for the best result.
- 2) Look on the right where it says "Search by Username" and type your own username in there.
- 3) Select the forum you want to search in (or you can search in all forums).
- 4) Display results as posts for the best viewing.

Look at the spoiler for more information. As you can see, I give away a lot of Megaupload accounts ?.
