Thread: Flash XML - Free Flash Components, Galleries and Templates

Webmasters - January 5, 2012, 12:32 pm

Dear Hack Forum members,

I recently stumbled upon a website I couldn't help but share.

About FlashXML.net

There is an ever-growing industry of authors creating Flash assets. The majority of these so-called Flash components (more than 95% on the web today) are actually just editable FLA files.

The FlashXML.net team strives to set a new standard by building the best Flash components available, fully customizable without the need for Flash software or any specialized skill other than using your mouse.

We have been developing Flash components for more than four years now, and we plan to blow you away with every new release!

Contact FlashXML.net

If you have questions related to our products please read the FAQ section first.

Use our Contact Form for any questions or suggestions you might have.

Flash XML has tons of free things to do, as well as selling lifetime licenses.

If you're in need of a custom theme, Flash XML has what you need, just go to this URL.

I could of kept this website to myself, but I thought it'd be better to share.

I give full rights to any images/used text from Flash XML, to Flash XML.

Hope everyone likes it, have a nice day.

Really like that site!

Could I get a Vouch-Premium-Account?

Gonna download some flash components from there.

Wonder if a similar site exists for html5 snippets.

Hmm found this:

<http://html5snippets.com/>

And:

<http://jplayer.org/>

Some good stuff.

Sorry, not my website.

I just stumbled on it and fell in love.

And I'm not sure if theirs any good snippet sites.

I'ma BUMP this!

Don't think it deserves to go unrecognized.

Webmasters - January 8, 2012, 7:45 pm

I'm going to do another BUMP on this topic.

I really think it should be used, spread, and enjoyed.
