Thread: [HWID System \[Source + Control Panel\] 05/03/2013](#)

Sutton2k9 - January 6, 2012, 6:22 pm

I have re-coded a lot of this project and added a theme to make it look better and fixed some small bugs and i have added an installer.

I know it can be cracked easy if decompiled but hey its free so.

<http://www.mediafire.com/download.php?ms6v576ed2b6830>

if you want to scan it then go a head as its a source.

You have to look at the example project. You need to take the functions and the login sub directly from his application in order for the login part to work.

Blink - January 27, 2014, 4:43 am

He's not wrong, unless you actually know how to crack applications yourself don't bother start making a protection system. Also protection through obfuscation isn't going to work, it only slows down the process of cracking, but someone will do it eventually. You're going to need serversided validation for everything.

But as already said nothing is uncrackable.

SHA251 to encrypt? You must be joking, 251? +They are hashing functions...

As I said earlier you're going to need much more than that, just encrypting data locally is very insecure.

Make your code so that
