

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Visual Studio 2010 or only Visual Basic 2010 Express?

Skillful - January 20, 2012, 1:36 am

Hey guys I have a question.

I currently have Visual Studio Ultimate 2010 installed on my computer.

However I only use C# and VB.NET.

So would it be better to uninstall Visual Studio 2010 Ultimate and download only Visual Basic and C# Express Editions?

Thanks in advance.

hackersock - January 20, 2012, 2:55 am

I was wondering the same question, because since my laptop is old, Visual Studio Ultimate runs pretty shit if I have it running at the same time as FireFox, or any other program that takes up a lot of memory...

Do you think that just running VB Express, would make it run faster? and use less RAM?

jean8mathieu - January 20, 2012, 3:47 am

VB Express 2008 would be better =p

2010 it's pretty the same thing with the other 2010 version =p

WhoAml? - January 20, 2012, 3:47 am

NO. you're perfect with Visual Studio 2010.

WhoAml??

Primal Rage - January 20, 2012, 5:49 am

Visual Studio 2010 FTW! I like it better in almost every aspect. Up to you but studio is what I use.

webdev77 - January 20, 2012, 3:48 pm

I just use VS 2010 Pro. You do realize that you can uninstall certain languages for all versions of visual studio though, don't you?

Warning, sort of large image.

Custom Install (Click to View)

[img]<http://www.kodyaz.com/images/visual-studio-2010/installation/microsoft-visual-studio-2010-features-custom-installation.PNG>[/img]

You can just uncheck what you don't want.