Nice coverage.

But I think it is over-exaggerated on the vulnerable parts.

No not really those are trusted site that most people know send them to a payload link and they would have no clue and if you think all you can do with those is an alertbox please go read up on Cross Site Scripting attack methods before you try to trash our finished OP cheers just because they are not persistent doesn't mean they are useless or anything, they can still be used in conjuncture with a XSS Tunnel&Shell or a Cookie Stealer. If you understood the dangers of XSS you would no that even a non-persistent in the right hands can turn very deadly.

Good job guys! If you dont think XSS is a big deal then check out this video I made just to give you an idea: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=1853635>

XSS to Meterpreter Shell against fully patched Windows 7 box :p

They exaggerated a bit, but still, great story.

orunu - January 21, 2012, 11:35 am

Thanks everyone, but how exactly did they exaggerate? I dont see how they exaggerated our finds in any way.
