Thread: hacking a gmail if you can't send the person an email

wbkm85 - February 15, 2012, 7:48 pm

any ideas as to how i can get into someones gmail even though i cannot send an email to them from my account?

thought about setting up a dummy account but pretty sure the person wouldn't even open up the email then.

any advice is appreciated.

Find out who they would gladly read and e-mail from - open a link within an e-mail from, even.

Create a dummy account that has a very similar name... like instead of baseballer@gmail.com, make it baseballer@gmail.com.... or instead of kellygrace@gmail.com., make it kellygrace@gmail.com then:

- 1) Go to <http://emkei.cz/>
- 2) in the "from email" put the e-mail you made a dummy off of...so "kellygrace@gmail.com"
- 3) in the "reply-to email" put YOUR dummy e-mail...kellygrace@gmail.com
- 4) Send what you want to send them, link, keylogger, whatever.

When they receive it, it will look like "kellygrace@gmail.com" in their inbox, and when they read the email....however I suggested making a dummy e-mail that looks just like it because if they want to reply back - in their "to" line it will no longer be masked...so you better have an e-mail that looks similar at a glance.

Try to Dox him, then use the secret questions to reset his password.

Good luck.
