Thread: How to get rich quick scheme

Cunningham - March 3, 2012, 7:33 am

Alright so when i first joined HF it was because i got banned from TTG for telling a admin named hippie to get hit by a bus! Anyways i ran a mod shop over there & sold JTAG's,KV's,Modded Controllers,Xbox Accessories and hosted modded lobbies on all of the Call of Duty's.

Well unfortunately HF doesnt have a big market for those things so i didnt profit at all when i came here and once my stock was gone it was gone. I then quickly ran out of $.

Cunningham whats your point?

Well im about to tell you how i turned like 10$ into every product i have financed to this day on HF

So heres the plan

Depending on how much $ you have go to the Hosting Services Section, there look for a reliable host who offers Reseller Hosting Packages

If you have enough $ order Super Alpha if you dont just order reseller.

You will also need

-WHMCS

-Domain Name

Once you get all those start selling webhosting, eventually you will make enough money to upgrade to a VPS or a higher reseller package....

After a month it should be nothing but profit.

Now you take that profit and put it into a new project

I took my profits from hosting which was 100$ and bought prodigys shell booter then bought private shells from P U L S E

Now what you invest in after hosting is on you. But Hosting is something someone will always need & there are plenty of other boards you can go post a thread on.

Im just bored and figured id kinda share my story and give people a way 2 make some $

Sure you can buy a reseller package for 2$ look up nozhost... then sell shared hosting manually until you get money for a domain and whmcs

Then they can buy hosting and it can be auto set up once your website is up with whmcs

There's enough people selling reseller hosting and claiming that they've got their own Datacentre in their basement. Why do we need more?

We have soo many resellers already. I really think it would be best to avoid promoting reselling. It is bad for customers who dont know and dont realize the company takes ages to respond to any 'actual problems' that can occur often when running a business like that.

Even the HF Companys that rent dedi's or host off VPS's are normally the middlemen to support.

Unless you own a datacenter you are a middleman

I beg to differ. When you rent a dedicated server anything except hardware failure is directly manageable by you. If you are a reseller you have to report it to whoever is in charge and then ignore your customers until they sort it out.

To an extent but not alot of people can afford to make that 250$ investment.

Very true. In my personal opinion i think people aiming to start a hosting company should be prepared to spend a little collateral, i make a point. I just dont think that people who dont want to invest money should instead become a reseller. Its too easy, the quality of the market suffers and people fail often when going down this road. Its true that the people will make profit but unless they are very good its usually profit at the cost of their customers.

Just my 2 cents, its all opinion based. ^^

I agree but this post is for someone who has little money to invest and wants to turn there little investment into something bigger.

Reseller ---->VPS-->Dedicated Servers---->Other Investments
