Thread: Custom User Group Change

Omniscient - March 28, 2012, 5:23 pm

All the current groups are now official and paid for. Graphic Masters were last group on the list of free legacy groups but have now made final payment to be official.

Official Site Groups:

Registered
HF L33t
HF Ub3r
HF P0w3r (coming soon)
Reviewers
HJT Team
HF Writers
Mentors
Staff
Admin
Closed (permanently closed accounts)
Exiled (temporary banned accounts)

Official Custom User Groups:

The Alliance
Respawn
Graphic Masters
Red Lions
Techsperts
Eminence
Marketers
Minecrafters
Propitious
illuminati

Price is now $2500 for a new custom user group. With every group sale I will increase the price by $500. I actually want custom user groups to be rare. I could probably sell 20 of them at $1000 each but I'd rather sell 4 at $2500 each. The less groups the better imho but I'm sure some crazy fanatic will still pay for a group.

Groups can be transferred to a new owner for a $250 fee.

You can read the Custom User Group help doc for more info.

<https://hackforums.net/misc.php?action=help&hid=32>

Thanks to all existing groups for supporting HF. I'll continue to look for ways to improve group admin functions here.

Demethos - March 28, 2012, 5:24 pm

I agree that groups should be rare, we don't want a overloaded amount of official custom user groups on the forum.

I support this!

Soulmate - March 28, 2012, 5:24 pm

Pretty good idea, getting tired of all these user groups.

Zinthertar - March 28, 2012, 5:24 pm

I wish I had the money to open up a new group. At least this will keep groups HQ. I'm definitely going to purchase P0w3r when it is available to.

Mr. Anderson - March 28, 2012, 5:26 pm

DAMMIT! I had exactly $1860 saved up and now I see I'll have to wait a lot longer than expected. Rats! Worst case of unfortunate timing.??

Sol Yurick - March 28, 2012, 5:26 pm

Glad to see the price raise. I think this will make them much more rare. Glad to see your going to continue to improve GroupCP.

Still can't believe people spend that amount of money on a group here. Seriously the stupidest fucking idea ever. Do you know what you can do with $2K? A lot.

You can make money if you make you only allow paid entrance into your group.

Graphic Masters represent till the day we die ^_^.

Phayzon - March 28, 2012, 5:32 pm

But doing that I feel is against the spirit of making a usergroup in the first place. I don't think that buying a custom usergroup should be a business venture. Omni should disallow people charging to get into groups.

Douchebag # 145 - March 28, 2012, 5:33 pm

Crazy amounts of money to create a group on a forum, that's for sure.

Will you notify us of the current price; or rather those who are interested in purchasing a group later in time?

Oak - March 28, 2012, 5:33 pm

Damn.

That's a change.

It will be more difficult to scrape together $500 more every time someone else make a group.

Skrille?x - March 28, 2012, 5:34 pm

Where can I find the official groups list?

The stickied one in the groups section is outdated and needs to be updated.

Omniscient - March 28, 2012, 5:35 pm

Quote:DAMMIT! I had exactly $1860 saved up and now I see I'll have to wait a lot longer than expected. Rats! Worst case of unfortunate timing.

Look on the bright side. If you're first to $2500 then next guy has to pay $3000.

And I decided a while ago to make this change. Just implementing it now. I was waiting for all the free legacy groups to either be converted or closed. I do believe their $500 price tag was a bargain. My guess is that anyone can sell their group for $1000+ right now. I'm sure groups will now be sold and transferred more than new ones started.

Quote:Still can't believe people spend that amount of money on a group here. Seriously the stupidest fucking idea ever. Do you know what you can do with $2K? A lot.

Some people think $20 is a lot of money. And some think $20k is a lot. It's relative. I've priced groups very high intentionally. I won't even justify it. It's expensive but obviously valued by some members for whatever reason.

Quote:You can make money if you make you only allow paid entrance into your group.

That's true and I know some of the groups just love the status. So it's not like their aren't benefits to owning or being part of a group. To each their own I guess.

But I've always said that if no one ever buys a group I really don't care. It's not about the money to me. It's about the hassle. If I'm going to be hassled then I want to be paid well for it. :)

BELLAGIO - March 28, 2012, 5:51 pm

Serious question.

What if someone wanted to buy rats crew or black knights to bring them back official.

Would it cost $2.5k?

You know, even with the price increases I don't think it'll stop anything. For the people who have a good market base and client base, they could make any amount of money in no time for the group.

And whoever said $2k was a lot, doesn't live in America. ._. $2k doesn't even feed my family for 3 weeks. ._.

You do have to consider that you have to pay for food, car insurance, car payments, house payment, electric, water, cable/internet, tuition if you go to college...Then if you have kids, shit gets even worse. Let's also not forget person wants or needs like girl products (for your wife or yourself or whomever needs it) or new shoes. Oh, and then there's taxes. Ooo, I love taxes. How fun.

In America, shit is fucking expensive. Just...fucking expensive. $100 is a lot of money to me. Maybe not to you or someone else but to me, it's just a damn lot. ._.

Mentors is a group lead by Omniscient. They can moderate specific sections. They are not super moderators they cannot moderate all the sections of HackForums they can't give warnings repfuck others. They can only close, open, junk threads in the section they have power.. Something like.

I agree, i say keep the price how it was or is and set a custom usergroup cap at around 15 groups.

If i took your comment the wrong way sorry but i still stand by my statement.

So glad you changes this, I honestly don't like new groups. I loved the older ones but recently everyone is trying to buy one.

You must have a family of 10 people.

Food is expensive but not THAT expensive. Me and my girl go through $400 a month in just food

Anyways, thanks again.

I can agree with $2500 but adding $500 each additional group seems a lot.

Food is expensive but not THAT expensive. Me and my girl go through $400 a month in just food 7 people, 7 Cats, 2 dogs, 2 tanks full of fish, 1 bunny, 1 long haired teddy bear hamster, 3 fancy mice, car payment, car insurance, electric, water, house payment, cable, internet, trash, lawn people (HoA granted), HoA payment, College for myself, Oh yes and food.

These are all the things I pay for. Now one might ask themselves, why the fuck there is so many people. It's complicated. And I don't feel like explaining it.

But no, 2k doesn't last for shit for a month. That's 7 people, a ton of animals, a ton of bills, and some other junk that goes on. And you know what, I know I can cut down drastically on some of the things like my animals, but I happen to be an animal lover and it's not happening. ._. So no, 2k doesn't last very long in this household.

Eh, I spend around $800 in food a month. That's if I don't buy good stuff like steak. If I buy steak, you may as well throw that price out the window and it up like another $200. So it may not be $2k, but it's still a fuck load. ._.

Mr. Anderson - March 29, 2012, 8:58 am

Even though this is not a debate about family expenses, for the last 10 years I've lived with three other people making only $2000 a month. Out of that, we only spent $600/m(including food and other expenses). I could stretch out $2000 over three months for three people, and have done it all the time. Yes I live in America, Minnesota to be exact. Maybe others use more because they have children, pets, etc.

Lol. Not even, they're still going to do it in hopes that they'll be the first to reach X amount before some one else does. This changes nothing, except how fact a group will be made now. It might take some groups a little longer, or maybe not even change the original date.

My question is, what if 4 people buy a group at one time? Is it $2500 for each person because they all asked to get a group at the same time? Or is it, the literal first person (if even by a minute) get's the $2500 and the others are informed it's now been raised to 3k, 3.5k, and then 4k?

Its hardly likely 4 people will do it at the same time, unless the plan it out beforehand. And I'm guessing its by the minute lol.

Very nice about the price change but I really think it should be $3000. Anyone else feel this way? A $500 difference just doesn't seem like that much of a difference (in the sense that some people make like $50 a day and it would only take them another 10 days to make it official.

The price of the group will increase by $500 after new group is purchased.

Thanks for making an update towards the groups. I actually suggested a price increase for the groups to a friend of mine and he disagreed. Well it comes to show that this idea is actually really good. Groups can now be rare and not easy to create one.

People who use idiotic words like that.

It's not really that groups have to be rare, but nearly every group idea is taken. A few are all-round groups, too many of the same is just.. boring..

As far as that exact name is concerned, there is no such thing. Otherwise, it's ambiguous whether it refers to the Groups section of the Admin CP or the Group Memberships section of the User CP.

Also, the problem with raising the price with each new group will be that LQ groups might just rush to register themselves. My other impression is that user groups should be rare, but not by being pricey, but instead by perhaps raising the standards for new groups. Else, the site will be filled with official LQ groups by rich kids and unofficial HQ groups by middle-class geniuses.
