

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: How to run your own "To Catch a Predator" operation.

Videogamer555 - April 14, 2012, 10:50 pm

This will explain how to set up a website so as to trick pedos into thinking they are going to be getting some CP from your site, only to have you RAT/Keylog them instead.

1.
Download and install a good free webserver package. I recommend Xampp/Apache.

2.
Make a website that seems to cater to pedos, but DON'T actually host any CP on it (you can legally use pics of underage girls in Bikini's though, as that will be convincing to most pedos that the site really has CP, making them think that if only they click on the next link they'd find some some real CP; just make sure that the girls are just standing their in their bikinis, and not in some "erotic" pose, as some jurisdictions would consider it CP if they are in an "erotic" pose, which would make YOU a criminal; but other than that it's pretty easy to find pics of girls in bikini's on the net, including underage girls, just don't end up on a real CP site by accident when looking for pics of girls in bikinis to download to put on your site; if you are in a jurisdiction with strict CP law though, for your safety you can download anime pics of underage girls naked or in bikinis, as cartoons alone won't get you busted for CP unless you are in Canada, the UK, or Australia, or a few other countries, but it is definitely legal currently in the US and Japan, and the naked or bikini clad anime girls will likely be enough to titillate pedos and convince them that the site has real CP, especially if you have accompanying text claiming that there is real CP on the site if only the person were to click on the next link).

3.
Have a link on your site that claims to go to a CP video on your site, but instead have it go to a page that claims it's missing a plugin needed to play the video, and have that page also have a link that claims to be the link to download the plugin.

4.
Have that link that claims to download a browser plugin really be a link to a copy of the "victim's" end of a RAT or Keylogger (such as Bifrost, Spynet, or Darkcomet). Your malware should (prior to posting on your site) should be configured to be persistent, attempt to disable AV softwares if it has that option, and be as invisible as possible (set the settings for maximum stealthiness), and make sure it is configured to autostart at bootup using all of the autostart methods it supports. In effect you want to make it as close to unremovable as possible. Also configure it to display an error message like "I'm sorry but the video player plugin is incompatible with your browser." He won't be alerted to the fact he's just been infected, and he'll think it really was a plugin. Also make sure that you do NOT set it to "melt" the exe file (delete itself after it has made a copy of itself in another directory), as that is VERY suspicious behavior. Also don't necesarilly set to rootkit mode (some offer this feature but also say that it is more likely to not work, because this hightech technique has more ways to fail, which would be counterproductive, especially since you've already made it so hard to detect).

5.
Make sure that text next to the link for this download says something like "Please disable your antivirus software prior to downloading. This plugin will likely be mistakenly identified as malware", or "Please set the exceptions in your antivirus software to allow Bifrost, as this plugin is often mistaken for being Bifrost by antivirus software". For that second example, make sure that you use whatever the name of your malware is instead of Bifrost (Bifrost is just an example, assuming you were using Bifrost).

6.

Once your site is up and running, load up the hacker's end of the software, the "receiver" so to speak, so you can get the connections as soon as they start coming in.

7.

Don't spend money on a domain name (like www.somesitename.com) as the service providing it to you might check out your site, and think it really IS a CP site and call the police on YOU! Don't even use a URL shrinker like tinyurl, as they may have a policy of checking the websites their links redirect to. Do NOT depend on any third party here. You don't need 3rd party services here (this also is why I suggested you use XAMPP/Apache and host it from your own computer). Going to your WAN/external IP address will work just fine to get you to the site from any other computer in the world. Go here <http://www.whatismyip.com/> to find your IP address. Then go to a place that has been known for pedo's to hang out (try 4chan.org, or even better try nambla.org as they are a site specifically DESIGNED FOR pedos), and post your IP address in a link on the forum, and advertise your site this way to get people to go to your site.

8.

Now just sit back and wait for your RAT/keylogger to start flooding you with info on your hacking vics. Get as much info on them as you can, lists of their files, IP addresses, the names of their ISPs, and even take a screenshot of your malware's receiving software that shows the list of vics you got (shows just how many pedos you managed to catch).

9.

After doing this for a few days, dial 911 and report to the police you just managed to catch a couple dozen (or more) pedos with enough incriminating evidence to put them away for a LONG time.

10.

When the police come to your house to talk to you (police tend to like to talk to the witnesses of a crime), make sure you have a USB jumpdrive with all the logs and info you got on the pedos, and hand the USB jumpdrive to the cops when they come to your house to take the witness statement from you, so they can launch their investigation with PLENTY of starting evidence. You'll be the local hero for catching LOTS of pedos.

XofSteel98 - April 14, 2012, 11:33 pm

That seems like a good plan. Though I don't think the risks are worth it. (It's just my opinion)

Videogamer555 - April 14, 2012, 11:59 pm

(Apr 14, 2012 11:33 PM)XofSteel98 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That seems like a good plan. Though I don't think the risks are worth it. (It's just my opinion)

Trust me, the only people who won't like you are the pedos themselves. Everyone else (including law enforcement) will consider you a hero.

Abdilo - April 15, 2012, 12:08 am

How would we explain we fucking infected their computers?

cdaddy - April 15, 2012, 12:52 am

Interesting tut man never seen anything like it before

Videogamer555 - April 15, 2012, 2:34 am

(Apr 15, 2012 12:08 AM)Notavirus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How would we explain we fucking infected their computers?

I've heard that there was a case before that a guy went to jail when a hacker found CP on his computer. I never heard that the hacker went to jail.

XofSteel98 - April 15, 2012, 3:57 pm

(Apr 14, 2012 11:59 PM)Videogamer555 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Trust me, the only people who won't like you are the pedos themselves. Everyone else (including law enforcement) will consider you a hero. I'm not talking about people not liking me. I'm talking about the chances of this actually working, and the chances of going to jail for hacking someone's computer. REMEMBER: The police will want to know how you caught the pedo.

(° ? °) - April 15, 2012, 4:02 pm

(Apr 15, 2012 03:52 PM)Videogamer555 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What in the world is the "deepweb"? Its where people actually post CP and get away with it (among other things).

kyle0671 - April 15, 2012, 4:04 pm

Isn't evidence obtained illegally not presentable in a court of law?

Videogamer555 - April 15, 2012, 4:06 pm

(Apr 15, 2012 03:57 PM)XofSteel98 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm not talking about people not liking me. I'm talking about the chances of this actually working, and the chances of going to jail for hacking someone's computer. REMEMBER: The police will want to know how you caught the pedo.

Tell them the truth. Tell them your elaborate scheme that specifically targets pedos, and gets a RAT/keylogger on their comp. Emphasize that you made a point of making the site so it will attract pedos (though without actually using any illegal material like CP) so that only pedos will get infected. Tell them that you are doing it for the SOLE PURPOSE of catching pedos so that they will go to prison where they belong, and that you are doing it to make the world a safer place. Make sure the police know you are not doing it for malicious fun like most hackers do, and that your actions are indeed intended to be of service to the community.

(Apr 15, 2012 04:04 PM)kyle0671 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Isn't evidence obtained illegally not presentable in a court of law?

I remember a news story in the past, where a hacker gathered info on a pedo, that got the pedo convicted and sent to prison. The hacker himself though was NOT found guilty of the crime of hacking, and therefore was not sent to prison. In fact if I remember correctly, the police didn't even arrest him. They treated him as a witness to the pedo's crime, and NOT as a suspect in a hacking crime. He was seen as a hero.

In fact, it's not uncommon now for law enforcement to TURN TO HACKERS to help solve crimes. The US Navy is literally hiring video game console hackers now for intelligence gathering jobs. Read this news story.

<http://www.geekosystem.com/navy-console-hackers/>

Vlad1k - April 15, 2012, 6:32 pm

Deepweb is a web that's hidden from search engines. It makes up 80 percent of the whole web. There is everything bad on there. Read wikipedia's article, I find it very interesting. Nice guide, but you do endanger yourself, and why do that..?

HoundPup - April 15, 2012, 7:18 pm

Well, I would probably print out all of those pictures I took with the evidence and snailmail it to the FBI without a return address. But also mail it from a few towns over.

cooldost - April 15, 2012, 9:11 pm

Nice tut bro..thanks for sharing this

Videogamer555 - April 15, 2012, 11:55 pm

(Apr 15, 2012 07:18 PM)HoundPup Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well, I would probably print out all of those pictures I took with the evidence and snailmail it to the FBI without a return address. But also mail it from a office a few towns over.

Why? If you aren't doing anything illegal, you have nothing to hide. I'd even ask that the police look at my website and give them my IP address, so they could access the website themselves see that everything I was doing on my site was indeed for a good cause, catching predators. I'd hide nothing. I'd make a point of making sure the police were fully aware of my activities, so they'd know that I wasn't just "hacking for the fun of it" but rather was doing it for the good of the community. I might even notify them BEFORE I implemented my plan, by calling the non-emergency police number and telling them my plan, or going to the nearest police precinct headquarters in my city, and talking to them in person and explain my plan to them, so they'd be fully informed of my plan for helping them to catch predators. That way they'd know for sure to not arrest me for hacking, as my activity would fall more into the category of a "sting operation".

The only people I would NOT want to know about my operation would be the pedos themselves. I wouldn't want to have to worry about retaliation, which if you've ever seen a "crime drama" on TV could include getting murdered.

(Apr 15, 2012 06:32 PM)Vlad1k Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Deepweb is a web thats hidden from search engines. It makes up 80 percent of the whole web. There is everything bad on there. Read wikipedias article, I find it very interesting. Nice guide, but you do endanger yourself, and why do that..?

It's impossible to hide your website from search engines. If your site is on the net, the search engine crawler bots/spiders WILL find it.

Appliance Warehouse - April 16, 2012, 12:56 pm

Lol, what I don't understand is why anyone likes to Ewhore and all of that shit. What shit does a pedefile have on his computer? Maybe some videos of little boys. Hey, you might even catch him jacking off to kiddie-porn!

That sounds great!

Incognitos - April 16, 2012, 1:29 pm

Nice tutorial man, nicely layed out aswell.

Vexxion - April 16, 2012, 1:46 pm

Putting your IP address up on 4chan.org is probably the worst idea I have ever heard. Other than that, great tutorial.

haci - April 16, 2012, 2:16 pm

(Apr 16, 2012 01:46 PM)Analogy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Putting your IP address up on 4chan.org is probably the worst idea I have ever heard. Other than that, great tutorial.

Was going to say this, its a risky buisness doing this.

Videogamer555 - April 16, 2012, 6:46 pm

(Apr 16, 2012 01:46 PM)Analogy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Putting your IP address up on 4chan.org is probably the worst idea I have ever heard. Other than that, great tutorial.

When you go to www.ebay.com or hackforums.net what is happening is the DNS server converts that domain name into an IP address. So your browser is still working internally with the IP address that it gets from the DNS server. When you use a hacking program that uses an IP address to target victims, if you put in the domain name it will still get resolved by the DNS server and the hacking program will get the IP address that way. Therefore you are in just as much danger hosting a web site and handing out your www name as you are hosting a website and handing out the IP address.

That's what I do when I want to advertise my website, since I'm goin free all the way (not paying for a domain name), I hand out my IP address to anyone who I think might want to go to my site. In my case, I haven't set up a site like in the tutorial, but I do have a video game website. just put my IP address <http://76.104.145.19> into your web browser and you'll see my website.

Error #404 - April 17, 2012, 4:04 am

I tried this before, I got a $5,000 ticket for distributing illegal software with intention to do harm to computer systems. I would have gotten 2 years in prison also, but they caught 7 pedophiles that I sent them. Thankfully a few police officers from my home town pitched in to get my ticket reduced to $300 and some community service. Yes you might be a hero to some people, but they will lose their jobs if they don't charge you for what you did to get the info to put them away.

This is the same as vigilant justice, a city will love a masked man killing drug dealers, child porn directors and other high caliber criminals. They might even stall searching for that man because most of them think that person is doing something that needs to be done but once they know you are doing it, they risk everything by not charging you.

So my warning to all people planning to do something like this, mail the usb drive to them, leave no finger prints, leave a note about what's on it, and use a name that is made up and can't be another living persons actual name.

Personally I'd rather hunt down a pedophile with my bare hands then turn them over to a jail that will let them out 20 years later. People like that don't change.

Videogamer555 - April 17, 2012, 1:51 pm

(Apr 17, 2012 04:04 AM)Sythor Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I tried this before, I got a $5,000 ticket for distributing illegal software with intention to do harm to computer systems.

I heard that the FBI DOES USE MALWARE on you (the law be damned) if they think you are are involved in terrorism. They even WRITE THEIR OWN MALWARE for this very purpose (Magic Lantern is probably the most well known of these). And the FBI agents don't go to jail for RAtIng/Keylogging your computer. Instead, they get congratulated, every time their malware catches a potential terrorist.

Also I saw an episode of Law&Order:SVU in which a hacker caught some pedos, and the police CONGRATULATED him (and did not ticket or arrest him) for catching the pedos. This mirrored the real life news story I remember hearing before of something similar happening in real life (hacker catches pedo, cops let hacker off the hook). Only difference in the Law&Order:SVU episode (and was NOT the case in the real life news story) was that in the SVU episode Spoiler \(Click to View\)the hacker turned out to really be a pedophile and was really putting CP on other peoples computers using his hacking skills, in order to throw the cops off his trail. Eventually the cops found this out and arrested him for possession and distribution of CP.

Though I don't remember which ep this was, I spoiler boxed this for those who haven't seen this episode of L&O:SVU, but might know which one it is, and I don't want to spoil it for them.

Hexxus - April 17, 2012, 3:31 pm

(Apr 15, 2012 04:04 PM)kyle0671 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Isn't evidence obtained illegally not presentable in a court of law?

If a police officer, or someone acting under the instructions of a police officer obtained this information illegally then that would be correct. However in some jurisdictions they could still use the information and say it was obtained from a confidential informant. Even if they did not use what you gave them, they would have enough information to start their own investigation

ScaryFro - April 17, 2012, 5:08 pm

(Apr 17, 2012 03:31 PM)Hexxus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If a police officer, or someone acting under the instructions of a police officer obtained this information illegally then that would be correct. However in some jurisdictions they could still use the information and say it was obtained from a confidential informant. Even if they did not use what you gave them, they would have enough information to start their own investigation Citizens gathering evidence do not need a warrant for it to be legal in court. Only authorities (exceptions like FBI and govt but in general)

Sweat Heart - April 18, 2012, 8:52 am

Quote:(try 4chan.org, or even better try nambla.org as they are a site specifically DESIGNED FOR pedos), 4chan isn't made for pedo's, try browsing outside of /b/ if you think it is.

Videogamer555 - April 18, 2012, 10:06 am

(Apr 18, 2012 08:52 AM)sjonniee Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 4chan isn't made for pedo's, try browsing outside of /b/ if you think it is.

Yeah, but nambla IS. However, 4chan does HAVE pedos that visit it.

slober - April 18, 2012, 10:54 am this is just great :)

having 5 pedos at this moment really hope they go yo jail ;)

thx =)

maynard91 - April 18, 2012, 12:08 pm

Amazing tutorial ! Thank you very much!

Scooby Doo. - April 22, 2012, 1:06 am

You have to love it when people post tutorials they haven't even experienced themselves.

Post my ip address on 4chan? lol..

I'm suppose to inform the authority that I created a website where I have stolen pictures of underage girls in bikini's without their permission, AND "hacked" into MULTIPLE peoples computers?

This is retarded, guys there are other ways of getting them arrested without you releasing your identity, but if you feel this is legit, and you'll simply get a thank you from the police, then feel free to do this.

You WITH the pedo would be punished..

Videogamer555 - April 22, 2012, 1:23 pm

(Apr 22, 2012 01:06 AM)AmbitionZ Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) stolen pictures of underage girls in bikini's without their permission,

No it's not stolen. Just do a google images search for girls in bikinis or something and get lots of random pics like that. Then use those on your site.