Thread: Graphic Masters: The Hostile Takeover Part 2.

Rhythm - April 16, 2012, 2:20 pm

Hello everyone, I'm posting today to bring up an unfortunate topic within the realm of the GM.

This is regarding the same member as last time, Sai

Many of you have likely seen our other thread: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=2353862>

If you haven't read that, I'd suggest reading it now.

Just so you all know, I realize Omni's position on the issue. The purpose of this thread is to not try to get him officially removed, it is to make sure the group remains inactive until Sai gives up his position.

I'd like to make the corruption present in the GM leadership to full perspective now. During the "revolution" that was my previous thread, tons of people showed their support for our cause. The group wanted Sai gone, I wanted Sai gone, and many external members wanted it as well.

But it was not so simple. Sai kept telling us that he, 'never got a chance' and he 'needed some time'. It was apparent that the argument was approaching a standstill. I decided, with the help of Buzz Lightyear, that it would be best to give Sai what he wanted: A Trial Period.

So that's what I did. To remove all doubts cast among who should be the owner, we gave him a two week trial period. Here are the Skype logs:

[3/31/2012 11:13:33 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: Sure. If you can reach significant progress in two weeks

[3/31/2012 11:13:37 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: I'll say I was wrong.

[3/31/2012 11:17:45 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: If you agree to honor the groups decision

[3/31/2012 11:17:48 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: in 2 weeks.

[3/31/2012 11:19:38 PM] Sai: huh?

[3/31/2012 11:20:02 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: In two weeks, the group will decide what is best from here on.

[3/31/2012 11:20:18 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: I will honor my end if you honor yours.

[3/31/2012 11:20:37 PM] Sai: Okay

[3/31/2012 11:21:42 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: Alright.

This was the arrangement. I closed "The Hostile Takeover" thread, removed everything about the issue from my profile, and gave Sai two weeks with the group. Buzz Lightyear had said "Roughly" two weeks however, so I was liberal and gave him 17 days. I came back to make the group poll on if he should remain owner, and this was the result:

[img]<http://screensnapr.com/e/HgLyjM.png>[/img]

The poll was clearly in favor of Sai's removal (at that point at least, without my vote at all). Unfortunately, we'll never know 100% because Sai once again broke his promise.

He closed my thread, and created one of his own where he stated:

"I am the official owner of GM and will be the official owner."

Sai is as untrustworthy as it gets. He's broken every promise he's made to me, he removed me from the group altogether (Had to get C4V to reinvite me), his events and tournaments have yielded no result, and despite the group wanting him gone, he refuses to cede his position.

This is totalitarianism at it's best. Let's show the tyrant what it means to be a community. We are a group, and we are responsible for it's functioning. By failing to accept the will of the Graphic Masters group, we've determined the group is no longer the Graphic Masters. As a result, me and the majority of the group will now leave. The only way to stop this madness is to cut off the source.

I call upon you now to (once and for all):

- Leave the group if you are a member
- Wear our signature in protest
- DO NOT apply for the group
- DO NOT be a part of the group's events
- Spread the word as best you can.

This can ONLY work if EVERYBODY helps. Spread the word, make the situation known. Do not apply, do not participate, do not support the group in any way.

There is no excuse now. He has NOT helped the group, he has NOT accepted the groups will, He has LIED compulsively, He has BROKEN promises that should not be broken. There is no other side to this story now, there is only a hunger for power. Do the right thing, help justice prevail.

You are OWNER. As much as you'd like everyone to believe that owner and leader are basically the same, they AREN'T. You proved that to us when you removed me and Etheryte from leadership unannounced.

I was "extremely inactive" making 73 posts a week until you decided to remove me. It's not about me anymore however, I've stated numerous times I do not wish to lead the group.

"Childish" more accurately describes your inconsideration for the groups ideals by disregarding their legitimacy and thereby declaring your own totalitarian rule amongst them. You referred to the GM members as "sheep" who "can't think for themselves". I refuse to let this rude and demeaning comment slander our group without repercussion. You are not one of us Sai; you are a menace not a leader. The natural order of things shall be regained for strength resides in numbers; and your actions have not made you loved among the people.

That seems very dishonest of Sai. I'm not going to sound one sided, but it's hard not to. Sai did not keep his side of the deal. After seeing this he and the other leaders should make an honest effort to reform.

He made it look like I broke promises and what not but you have to understand that this "agreement" he made was not the actual agreement I agreed to. You see this is why things should be settled within the group because people don't know the full story. Pretty low on Rhythms part.

What about this "Agreement" did you not agree to?

Here's the entire log, from start to finish:

[3/31/2012 9:32:18 PM] Sai: yea

[3/31/2012 9:33:11 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: Listen, I don't want this to end in a bloody war

[3/31/2012 9:33:28 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: I say we leave it up to the group, it's always been about the group regardless.

[3/31/2012 9:33:41 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: Will you honor the decision made in C4Vs thread?

[3/31/2012 9:34:10 PM] Sai: The only true way to settle things is with unity

[3/31/2012 9:34:35 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: Yes. And the only way for that to be achieved is for the group to agree

[3/31/2012 9:34:50 PM] Sai: Right now there are 2 sides

[3/31/2012 9:34:50 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: So let us let the group make the decision, shall we?

[3/31/2012 9:34:59 PM] Sai: your side and mine

[3/31/2012 9:35:18 PM] Sai: Why not just not make sides?

[3/31/2012 9:35:27 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: What do you mean

[3/31/2012 9:35:58 PM] Sai: This all started because you you were demoted and became anti

[3/31/2012 9:37:31 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: I'm sorry, but there's no going back there.

[3/31/2012 9:38:03 PM] Sai: Hm well yea thats true

[3/31/2012 9:39:02 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: The fact of the matter is, and C4V put this well

[3/31/2012 9:39:07 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: If I can paraphrase him

[3/31/2012 9:42:46 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: He will until this entire situation is settled, most likely.

[3/31/2012 9:43:10 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: Leadership works if the people are willing

[3/31/2012 11:03:55 PM] Sai: Once I have proven I can benefit GM, mind making some kind of apology thread in like 2 weeks?

[3/31/2012 11:04:51 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: No, only because of the respect you've shown me.

[3/31/2012 11:04:58 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: I will admit I was wrong

[3/31/2012 11:05:01 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: but I will not apologize.

[3/31/2012 11:20:02 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: In two weeks, the group will decide what is best from here on.

[3/31/2012 11:20:18 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: I will honor my end if you honor yours.

[3/31/2012 11:20:37 PM] Sai: Okay

[3/31/2012 11:21:42 PM] Alex [Rhythm]: Alright.

This is clearly Sai agreeing to let the group decide in two weeks, and if the group decided in his favor I would concede and admit I was wrong.

Does it really matter who the "leader" is? Why can't you and Sai just get along? From what I have heard THAT will make the GM better, not a revolution, even if Sai got the group sneakily.

More thoughts came to my mind: Both you and Sai are good people. Two good people in a group is way better than two angry people with only one in the group. Please just settle this as the GM are HF's only graphics group.

Obviously the way Sai got the group is unfair, but making threads about it over and over again will only aggravate everyone instead of joining this so called revolution. Just get back Buzz Lightyear, or find someone else who knows their way around graphics and communication. This is just going to ruin the group, not help it. I don't know about both of you, but activity in GM doesn't seem so bad, even if I'm still new to the group, it's not totally dead.

Baghead - April 16, 2012, 4:27 pm

I've been wanting to be apart of GM since I joined HF but I don't think either Rhythm nor Sai are right in what they're doing. While Sai didn't necessarily earn or buy leadership of GM, I think he's for the most part doing his job as leader right. He's organizing weekly art walls, he opened up recruitment again, and he arranged the tourney. I do, however, think that he should step down as leader because the group voted him out. I don't know what happens within the group because I'm not apart of it, but according to the poll the majority of members want a new owner. This is why Sai should not be the leader of GM, but maybe a co-leader. A good way to solve this would be to let Sai remain leader but maybe promote Buzz or someone else to owner without charge to stop all the drama and make sure GM doesn't fall apart. Just my two cents.

Agent Shark - April 16, 2012, 4:31 pm

The more you post about this, the more idiotic and childish the issue becomes. Sai is taking a respective stand and ignoring your drama. Your being an attention whore. With that, if I was a leader and removed, I would simply get to the bottom of it privately. NO ONE here needs to know the issue

Furthermore, if I was Omni and this was continuing the way it is, I would remove the group overall based on how immature your making it look. Regardless of corrupt leaders inactivity.

That's true. What I think is that the new recruitment might've also brought the level of activity up because so many new and learning active members were added and eager to do more for GM. I think Sai was a part of this but isn't the only reason. Before the new GM recruitment I hardly ever saw a GM userbar, much less art walls and tourneys. But then again I didn't join until december...

Rhythm, Why not go out, Get a job and a new girlfriend. Your just going on an on an on, When I first read this I was thinking? Sai an asshole, But he offered you your spot back and the poll is debatable, because your obviously gonna beg people to vote against him, and its not as if the vote was an annialation, idk what the hell this is all about. But after everything I have seen (An Sai hasn't said much) You are totally annoying me lol. Group an all this rubbish, go get a life instead.

Let it be. This is regarding the injustices occurring within a certain group, it only seems logical it be announced in the group section.

D3xus - April 16, 2012, 6:11 pm

Can we stop bitching about this and get a little logic going?

Based on what I've seen, Sai and Rhythm bring up good points and flaws in each others' arguments.

I'm typing out the logistics in this post, so stay tuned.

iNk. - April 16, 2012, 6:13 pm

honestly. if this keeps going. i say omni just rids of the group. 1 thread was enough. 5+ over the SAME problem is annoying as fuck.

Glassy - April 16, 2012, 6:25 pm

Alright, I see where this is going. I'll tell you this, at this rate it won't end up good in neither ends.

Honestly, the case would have been much simpler if Sai just didn't agree with Rhythm when they were in the chat. In the end, Sai bought the group, no matter how he got the money and all it was under his circumstances and he managed to do it. Omniscient himself read through the first thread and its first version of The Hostile. His words are and still remain that Sai is group owner. If that is the way it is, then guess what guys that is the way it is.

Now concerning the group, yes being a leader is a big task and a task that must be followed everyday to make sure its group is top notch. I am sure leaders are open to suggestions. Give Sai some good tips and suggestions that will help him presume the group better. I am sure he would appreciate that, I mean which leader wouldn't.

I doubt a change will happen and to those that are part of the group already, I doubt they would leave as it was something they applied for. Rhythm, you should have given it more time and excuse this matter till Omniscient gives his word out again. Although, I doubt he will since he has already spoken his words for a similar situation like this in the last version.

If you feel the group is being down scaled, do Sai a favor and a favor to the rest of the Graphic Master group members, message Sai and suggest him things that he can do to make the group better. I am sure he will take it in some use.

I don't even know your purpose anymore, Rhythm. I thought it was to help GM, but now it just seems like you want to tear down GM and Sai.

I'm with Spork. What's your purpose Rhythm?? I completely agree with glassy here. Stop all this "Hostile Takeover" stuff and just tell Sai what to do differently. I know that he cares about GM and will probably appreciate the feedback. Is your purpose still to take down GM?? That's most likely not gonna happen. I don't think anyone will leave, because GM is hard to get into and if you left because of Sai and he still remained leader, you most likely would not get put back into the group unless leadership changed.

Sasori - April 16, 2012, 9:08 pm

So you're making another useless thread, Rhythm?

If you know this thread won't do anything, why post it?

Anyways,

No, I'm not going against him and I never will.

He is the one doing something within the group. Something you nor the other leaders attempted to do, bring activity.

(Apr 16, 2012 02:20 PM)Rhythm Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) But it was not so simple. Sai kept telling us that he, 'never got a chance' and he 'needed some time'. It was apparent that the argument was approaching a standstill. I decided, with the help of Buzz Lightyear, that it would be best to give Sai what he wanted: A Trial Period.

So that's what I did. To remove all doubts cast among who should be the owner, we gave him a two week trial period. And what is your point? That he didn't stick up to his promises for you little kids?

That he hasn't brought activity? It seems to me like he sure has.

Unfortunately, we'll never know 100% because Sai once again broke his promise. The poll shouldn't matter what so ever. Why? Because everything you say is against Sai, you make him look like he took the GM and ruined it for everyone.

The votes don't matter, your threads don't matter. He is leader and Omni gave you his last word.

All you're doing is wasting everyone's time.

A good way to solve this would be to let Sai remain leader but maybe promote Buzz or someone else to owner without charge to stop all the drama and make sure GM doesn't fall apart. Just my two cents. Once again, I must agree with part of your post.

Sai is fine as leader. Who cares if he got his way into only paying 50$?

He is still doing a better job then any other previous leader.

This is negative attention you are trying to put upon Sai. I'm not in Graphics Master, nor will I probably ever. Please handle this like an adult, through a PM and don't get the rest of us involved in your own personal issue against him, thanks.

Twin avatars O.o.

I'm sure Sasori's post already summed everything up. I don't know what you're sticking up for, Rhythm. If you're trying to tear down the group and leader, karma is a bitch. If you're trying to get back at Sai, well congrats, everyone in the group is annoyed with both of you, but mainly you. If you're trying to tear down GM, I don't see it happening so far.

The group is a paid group. There is actually an owner of Graphic Masters. It is now Sai's group and he has full control of it. Omni may be upset, but I doubt he will disband it as it is not a free group like Black Knight or The Rat's Crew.
