

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: My city has city-wide free wifi

chinchilla305 - April 19, 2012, 9:00 pm

There's gotta be something I can do with this. Thousands of people use this wifi and its free to connect to anywhere. Anyone have any good ideas.?

SIM-38442 - April 19, 2012, 9:02 pm

Where do you live and how big is the population. I'm going to start pushing for this to my City council.

Zuck - April 19, 2012, 9:03 pm

Well, Chinchilla, you can start off by starting a shit load of 100GB torrent files and the internet provider will detect illegal activity and will send the owner of the wifi a $1000 fine. Keep them seeding for 2 weeks.

chinchilla305 - April 19, 2012, 9:12 pm

id prefer to not put my location but it is a VERY large city. when I say thousands use it I mean 10's if not hundreds of thousands.

Zuck - April 19, 2012, 9:12 pm

How the hell does that work? Wouldn't it go slow as hell?

Darkwin - April 19, 2012, 9:13 pm

I think Minnesota was pushing to do something like this awhile back, but it was with Google as there ISP!

chinchilla305 - April 19, 2012, 9:14 pm

its slowwww as hell. I dont use it. I'm asking how I can use it to my advantage. I know open wifi's can be used for evil, well my whole city is on one. I need someone to start throwing me some good ideas on how to use this for evillll!

Kyle1995 - April 19, 2012, 9:15 pm

Well if your looking to sniff packets or something I doubt theres anything you can do. It probably has got some tight encryption... That sounds pretty sick TBH though.

Chase™ - April 19, 2012, 9:19 pm

Im pretty sure the city isn't too stupid to not protect there network. As for the internet being slow, what are the speeds?

chinchilla305 - April 19, 2012, 9:19 pm

Yeah its pretty cool and has gotta have some kind of abuse potential. I dont think it has much security tho, wouldnt suprise me if it didnt atleast. I know IBM runs it. Have not done a speed test and dont really want to as it is realllyyy slow during peak hours. Think dial-up speeds.