Thread: How long is too long for product delivery?

Gink - April 21, 2012, 9:52 pm

Hi,

Basically, I bought a method from this member Yellow Skull:

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=905279> for $300. He promised me before I paid that I'd get it immediately, then once I paid he said he had to wait till it came through and that he'd send it within an hour, and the next day he said that he was out with his girlfriend or something and I forgot what he said today. Anyways, how long is too long before I might consider opening a dispute?

Regards.

I'd go ahead and open that dispute, honestly.

depends on what you ordered. be more specific

Well, I would say 2 days is more than enough for a product to be delivered. However, I'd say wait a week just to make sure that you 'gave him enough time' for him to deliver, before opening a dispute. I usually receive my e-books/methods on the same day of purchase.

Seen this a few hundred times on this site by now. It's almost certain you've been scammed which is further reinforced by the fact that he is a known scammer:

Well he wasn't exactly selling it to anyone else. After we made the deal he said he wrote it up already and that I'd get it right after payment, but after paying he said he messed up the method and had to rewrite it and have his partner check over it. :#

In our Skype conversations (which anyone who's used Skype before will know is impossible to edit) he verifies that he has received the money and also goes on to say that "if I were scamming you I'd already have blocked you".

Tick tock goes the scammer clock.

You've been scammed. They always make excuses and try to delay it as long as possible. Also, he has several scam reports on him.

what are my chances of winning?Your I.P wouldn't really matter, as long as it's in the same region. Many people have static I.P's, and hopefully you win.

Probably delayed it so he has enough time to transfer the funds and possibly use them.

I'd request or file a report with paypal straight away Op.

Also open a scam report on HF to warn users about this guy.

I haven't used Skype on iPad before, but I am sure that you can log onto your PC and extract the chat logs off skype from there.

I'll get screenshots of the logs on my iPad I guess. Those will take a while to upload, though.
