OP:

Just an FYI, a group cannot be 'official' until $3500 is payed to Omniscient.

It's not a group, it's an official clan.
It's something off-site and it's official because it's his 'clan' for MW3.
Read the OP next time.

Actually, anything that is posted in the 'Group and Crew General Discussions' is considered unofficial (like I stated previously) until you make it official. If you think you clan is official okay, but it's not official to Hack Forums. 'Clan' is just another word for 'Group', they have the same meaning and outline.

A clan is a group of people united by actual or perceived kinship and descent.

That basically outlines what a group on Hack Forums stands for. Sorry, but I am just telling you both the point I'm trying to get across.

Well its official because its mines so no one can tell me its unofficial.

And we just learned the group owner is 12. The group is not an official group, It's not an official Clan either. If you're going to be immature then just get the fuck out.

Its clearly obvious by your grammar and trying to convince yourself that your clan is official, and your username is 'Drugs.'
