Thread: [\[Beginner\] - Sonic Vector Sig Tutorial - \[Easy\]](#)

GrilyDesign - May 3, 2012, 10:36 am

I made this tutorial about 6 months ago, when I just started creating signatures.
This tutorial is for Beginners and should be easy to follow.

This is also my first and only tutorial I've ever made.

LOL, the "do not rip" made me laugh.

Implying this tag is so good or something.

No offense but it's awful.

The tutorial is okay though, nice one.

Very nice guide, I liked it. Made one of my own, not my best but I try :P Also, I use GIMP, that's why it may look different from yours, and I added my own things in along the way. I put the "Your Name" part so I can give it to someone that wants it on another forum I am on :P. Here it is,

I made this tutorial when I just starting making graphics and a lot of people were ripping my work. I guess that's why I added 'do not rip'.

I don't really like this signature, but yea, like I said, I just started :)
Thank you.

Final img looks pretty badass actually, thanks for the tut!

xXZzMLGzZXx - October 6, 2015, 11:25 am

Doesn't using a raster image of sonic, kind of defeat the purpose of using vector imaging too?

Wide Awake - October 7, 2015, 4:13 pm

haha i mean i guess i learned something..

what you think?

FalconBusiness - October 8, 2015, 4:47 pm
