Thread: Removed

Existence - May 3, 2012, 11:31 am

Removed, there's nothing to see here. Move along now.

Mr Kewl - May 3, 2012, 11:34 am

There are only 3 staff member and I don't think they can be online 24/7 and unfortunately Mentors don't moderate Marketplace the reports take a longer time.

The MammoTh - May 3, 2012, 11:36 am

What besides that can you post on a selling thread? A selling thread is not meant to deliver support that's were the PM system is for.

They can post updates, the buyers can vouch, or the buyers can make a review.

You're talking about "buyers", but the user selling is what your pointing out in the OP.

Updates are announced once in a while, not every thread has a update every week.

Falconw0w - May 3, 2012, 11:44 am

You could just report the posts instead of making a detailed thread about it and calling it as feedback.

The MammoTh - May 3, 2012, 11:45 am

And also why would this ONLY be the problem in the "Server Stress Testing" section?

If the product is big, updates are posted as a different sales thread.

and "Vouch for OP" is all over the marketplace. You can't do anything about it.

This thread will end up as there's a need for moderator for that section.

Coz he has a sticky there and wants to Mod it now. Simple.

Sol Yurick - May 3, 2012, 12:04 pm

Quote:I thought the whole section was a great idea, it is keeping the premium sellers section free of stressers and it organizes the marketplace much more. It's also another section for Omniscient to sell stickies in. Overall the whole idea is a great one, but others things not so much.

I agree with you, it was a great edition to the marketplace.

Quote:The quality of most of the posts are just horrible.
Why do you not just report them?

Quote:. I have reported these, but it sometimes takes days for it to even get taken care of.
That is not true, and do not even tell me it is. Factor8 alone does over 500 reports a day.

Quote:Some members (Not a lot) just keep posting their thread and closing it for no Reasoner some are within a day all of the threads listed are an example of the post, close, post.
I have only seen this done about three times, him being one of them. I do agree, it does get to me.

Quote:This section offers a great opportunity for both sellers and buyers, but if this problem doesn't get fixed soon most members will not even bother going to this section and purchasing stressers.
LQP occurs in every section on HF. Report them and they will be handled. I doubt any one will stop buying because there are some LQP's. Just report that. That is the simple solution to the problem.

Quote:It's also another way for Omni to sell stickies and for the sellers to advertise their stresser without having to fight over it in the premium sellers where you have crypters, stressers, clients, ect.
I remember it use to be a battle to get a sticky in the section. People grinned it out, and found ways to get them. It is just life to be honest.

This is feedback, but I certainly do agree with you.

American Apathy - May 3, 2012, 12:07 pm

I don't even think a feedback thread was needed, the only outcome of the addition was positive. There's no way it could've made anything worse.

It's feedback of the section, isn't that what this section is for?

Yes, but the only outcome of the addition was positive so I don't think he really needs feedback. We've been wanting it for months.

Omniscient - May 3, 2012, 1:22 pm

Report "Online and selling" as LQP.

Reports are taking days for the staff to even remove. There should be a word filter for "Online and selling" or something like that.

Those who dare to speak against the O'Mighty Omniscient.

Mr Kewl - May 3, 2012, 1:48 pm

You should be patient and report it, you shouldn't be bothered unless they are spamming on your thread with LQPs. I told you earlier there are less staff members. Staff aren't our servants they'll do the job whenever they feel like. Report and move on.

I understand this. This is feedback on the section, what needs to be improved and what's wrong with it.

Reports do not take "days" to get dealt with. They get dealt with as soon as possible. Not "days." My guess would be no more then one day.

Some do, for example the one in my thread that I showed in the OP.

I don't have any others off hand that I can remember.

Alright, maybe once and a while. Not every report. You make it sound like every report you make, it takes days to get looked at.

Seems like you are wanting moderator of the specified section.

I don't really think that works..

Yes. He is trying too hard for it and it is now visible. He is doubting Staff's inabilities and want us to think that an additional person is needed to monitor that section and because he made this suggestion, he somewhere expects that he can become a Mod. Fail attempt. Its not a big crisis. Threads take time to get deleted at times even in other section. I guess you never noticed Existence.

Existence - May 3, 2012, 9:17 pm

Added some possible solutions. Note: These are just solutions that I thought of that may work.
