Sonus - May 6, 2012, 4:22 pm

I'm starting this service. I will be hacking emails, accounts, websites, forums, FaceBooks, grade websites, etc. Basically anything. Send me a PM and I'll see if I can do it.

A few vouches from my previous thread, as well as this one:

Hi,

Do you need to contact the victim in ANY WAY to hack an account or is there anything that the victim needs to do such as clicking link etc? Or the whole process will be back end? I will be interested if you can do the whole think back end and I will be paying any amount you ask for.

No, they will not be contacted in any way, shape, or form.

I have sent you a PM.

Answering back 30+ PMs just from today alone. Keep them coming.

Answered back all PMs and emails. Gotten a lot, but keep them coming.

NOTE:

I have had some users PMing/emailing me while I am asleep and becoming frustrated when I don't reply back quickly. If I am online the computer, I always respond to my emails and PMs before doing anything. So if I haven't replied, it's because I haven't been online, I am not ignoring you. Just thought I would clear that up.

I am going to bed now, and I will be online tomorrow.

OK everyone following this thread....Sonus is 1 hour and 25 minutes late on his promise of my refund for $310.00. I haven't even heard from him since he said last night that I would have everything in 1 hour; that was 11 hours ago..and still nothing. I think now we can put Sonus on the scammer list.

Athena - May 25, 2012, 4:20 pm

I nearly paid him but I'm not sure if he's really legit or not.

In the end, I think we really need to learn on our own how to do these things.

I'm currently taking steps to become a hacker instead of just a buyer (But I'd really just want someone else do it for me :P). ^_^

His account is closed. He's gone. Looks like a scammer to me tbqh

Athena - May 27, 2012, 12:02 pm

It's quite difficult doing transactions with anybody, both online and in person.

Most of the time people will just scam you. Even the vouch system is not that fool-proof.
